Conservation Districts Remind Farmers Of Oct. 1 Deadline

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff
EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — A number of county conservation districts have been sending out reminders intended for those who need to submit official nutrient management plans — the deadline is Oct. 1.

In fact, the Lancaster County Conservation District has an open letter to all of its farmers published in this issue of Lancaster Farming.

It really applies to all farmers across the state.

There is also an information form to be filled out and sent to the Lancaster County Conservation District, for those within the purview of that district.

However, any farmer in the state can use that same form to supply information to his respective local conservation district.

The nutrient management plans are required by the state Nutrient Management Act for existing and new livestock operations that are legally considered "concentrated animal operations" (CAO).

CAOs are those farms that have high animal populations, in comparison to the available crop and pastureland base that can receive manure.

In other words, a threshold has been set, by law, for the number of animals (actually the amount of animal liveweight) that can be raised on an acre of land, without having to create and file an official nutrient management plan.

There is no legal limit on the number of animals allowed per acre on any farm; as long as a nutrient management plan is filed for those with high density operations, and other applicable laws are followed.

The regulations that implement the state Nutrient Management Act were approved Oct. 1 last year, and

Committee Survey To Assay Youth Dairy Show Program

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff
UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — The state Junior Dairy Show Advisory Committee has been conducting a survey of 4-H and FFA members and parents, in an attempt to discover whether the existing program is meeting needs.

4-H and FFA youth and their parents who have been attending district dairy shows during the past two months have received, or been made aware of, the survey and encouraged to respond and submit them before leaving the show.

While the purpose of the survey has caused some discussion and some early speculation, according to Dale Oliver, head of the state youth dairy program, "The main thing is to determine if the (4-H and FFA) members and parents are comfortable with the existing system, and if there is a value to the

In the case of Russell Sauder, "You can't take the farm out of the farmer." Although he and his wife Ruth passed their century farm onto the next generation, they still enjoy harvesting the fruits of their labor. Turn to page B2 for more about the story by Lou Ann Good.

EVERETT NEWSWANGER

SYRACUSE, N.Y.—The 20th annual Dairy Day was held Monday at the New York State Fair to honor the dairy industry and bring the dairy message to the largest assembly of consumers possible. Greetings from Gov. George C. Patacki in the form of a proclamation and a keynote address from State Ag Commissioner Donald Davidsen provided the backdrop for the recognition and awards reception at the Empire Room in the Art & Home Center.

"Dairy Day is in recognition and appreciation for what all the dairy families do in New York state," Gov. Patacki's proclamation said. "We proudly join on this special day to recognize the contributions made by the men and women of the New York state dairy industry and the role in strengthening our economy and beautifying our rural landscapes."

Commissioner Davidson said farmers are the original environmentalists and that protecting the environment and having people live here is not mutually exclusive. "We need to be practical. In the past two years, federal, state, and local governments spent over $10 million in environmental management. And over the past year, $10 million was spent for farmland protection. Even if you live in the most

WE HAVE STIR AERATOR TO HELP WITH

FLY &
ODOR

BIG PERFORMANCE...SMALL PRICE

SIMPLE PROCEDURE: the aerator works directly into the bed of material, forming its own windrow. Windrows can be formed from piles of nearly any size. Alleyways are not required when using the Brown aerator, so there is a great reduction in space requirements. The aerator's reverse rotation works the material from the bottom up, and to the side, assuring complete mixing and agitation. LOW MAINTENANCE: the aerator is a simple design, the principle as a material mover has been proven with over 30 years experience in practical application. The aerator is hydraulically driven and equipped with patented wearplates or paddles, both of which are easily replaced.

National Grain Market

St. Joseph, MO
Wed Sep 02, 1998

USDA-MO Dept Ag Market News DAILY NATIONAL GRAIN SUMMARY

Wheat bids finished mixed, mostly lower as harvest pressure, good crop yields, and lack of new export sales, weighed on bids. Kansas City wheat bids, however, closed slightly higher due to some technical strength and ideas the market has been far oversold. Corn and soybean bids made further advances as the Dow moved higher and South Korea bought more US corn overnight. Wheat mixed, mostly 3 to 7 cents lower except St. Louis and Kansas City 2 to 3 cents higher. Corn 1 to 2 cents higher. Sorghum 3 to 4 cents higher. Soybeans steady to 8 cents higher with Southern Iowa up to 19 cents higher.

MOON AT PERIGEE, SEPT. 8.

LABOR DAY

With the Industrial Revolution came working days of up to 16 hours, as capitalism raged. In America, a movement for an 8-hour day caused widespread strikes and violence as early as 1860, and child labor problems became acute after the Civil War. The Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 marked the beginning of improved labor conditions. The United States, Canada, and Puerto Rico all celebrate the first Monday in September as Labor Day. The tradition began in the United States in 1884, with a day set aside to honor all working people.

In my apron, I carry nails, pliers, a heavy hammer, and pride.

- Moira Bachman

split in half and slice into wedges. Coat one side of each slice of bread with pesto or olive oil. Layer on the tomato slices, season with salt and pepper, add the mozzarella slices and fresh basil leaves, and top with a second piece of bread.

Slice the French bread on the diagonal, making at least a dozen slices. (If using focaccia,

OPINION

This Means You

Pennsylvania's Nutrient Management Act went into effect back in October 1, 1997. Under this law, operators of farms fitting the definition of a concentrated animal operation (CAO) are to develop, submit, and implement an approved nutrient management plan. Operators of CAO farms are to submit these nutrient management plans to their county conservation district for approval by October 1, 1998.

This means that farms having an animal density of greater than 2,000 pounds of live animal weight per acre of owned and rented land used for manure application have only this month yet to submit the plan. That's not very much time.

Quite a number of farms are not yet in compliance with the law. And there is not much time to act. The farm community was active in the development of the Nutrient Management Act program that is designed with the understanding that the agricultural community will come forward to comply as they are required. It is important that farmers be responsive in fulfilling their responsibilities under this law because if this law is unsuccessful in getting farmers to participate, a more aggressive approach may be imposed by the federal or state government to address manure and fertilizer practices associated with animal agriculture.

From what we know, we believe it is important that farmers act now to participate in this program. Many opponents of agriculture just can't wait to put greater restrictions on our production facilities and capabilities.

Certainly, we want to protect our local water quality. By complying with the requirements of this act voluntarily, we protect the reputation of the agricultural community as being responsive to the efforts to protect our water resources. Everyone who farms must act now. Yes, we must say it. This means you.

To Use Cover Crops in Soil Management

According to Robert Anderson, Lancaster County Extension Agronomy Agent, cover crops not only keep soil erosion to a minimum in the winter time, they provide several other important functions.

Cover crops act as a nutrient bank. The nutrient of biggest concern is nitrogen. Cover crops are capable of using left over nitrogen from the previous crop season before it leaches into the ground water.

In the spring when the cover crop is killed with a herbicide or plowed down, the nitrogen is released back into the soil during the growing season for the next crop. Cover crops add organic matter to the soil. Whether the entire plant is left in the field or just the roots, this plant material adds to the organic matter in the soil.

Organic matter adds water holding capacity to the soil, provides food for soil microbes, improves soil structure and adds to the soil's ability to hold nutrients.

To Use Cover Crops for Feed

Robert Anderson, Lancaster County Extension Agronomy Agent, reminds us cover crops can also provide additional forage for livestock feed. If the crop is harvested as a silage crop, the nitrogen which it captured from the soil becomes a source of protein when fed to ruminant livestock.

When the cover crop is used to produce silage, not only is the nitrogen kept from leaching into the ground water, the silage harvested will replace purchased feeds at a very small cost to the farmer.

A little money for seed and a little time to plant are small costs to pay for the many returns cover crops may provide. Erosion control, nutrient bank, feed source, organic matter, water holding capacity and soil structure are a few of these returns. Cover crops offer the most advantage when planted immediately after removing corn silage or tobacco.

To Test Private Water Supplies

If your water supply is from a private well or spring, monitoring water quality is your responsibility. Leon Ressler, Lancaster County Extension Environmental Agent, reminds us that the only way you may be certain your water is safe to drink is to have it tested periodically.

Several screening tests can give you a pretty good idea about the quality of your water. A test for total coliform bacteria should be run annually. The acceptable test results are zero colonies of coliform bacteria in the sample.

Make sure the lab running the test is certified for microbiology tests by the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection. Other tests you might want to consider are nitrate nitrogen, hardness, iron, total dissolved solids and pH.

ON BLAMING THE SNAKE

September 6, 1998

Background Scripture:

Genesis 3

Devotional Reading:

Romans 7:15-25a

As a teen-ager, I assumed that the sin of Adam and Eve was a sexual one. My assumption was understandable because people very often portrayed them in that light. The 'forbidden fruit' — usually depicted as an apple — was usually suggestive of sexual pleasures. It probably wasn't until my theological studies that I realized that their sin was much more encompassing. They disobeyed God in eating the forbidden fruit and it robbed them of their innocence, making them ashamed of their nakedness.

This misconception is only one of many which people entertain about the meaning of the Garden of Eden. Among others is that God counts us as sinners because of what Adam and Eve did eons ago. One bright lad in one of my confirmation classes said he thought it was very unfair of God to hold us responsible because people disobeyed him so long ago.

My response was that this story is not so much about what happened long, long ago, but what is happening in our lives right now. Like Adam and Eve — not because of what they did — we willfully disobey God's commandments today. That responsibility does not rest with them, but each of us. It is not so much history as it is our story.

NOTHING TO HIDE

Just compare their situation with ours. Their initial relationship with God was an ideal one. They "were both naked," but they were "not ashamed." Innocent up to this point, they had nothing to hide, either from God or from each other. That is the kind of unashamed relationship for which God creates us.

Then, introduced into the story, is the one factor that always ruins that guileless relationship: the tempter. Note that the tempter in Genesis 3 is not the obvious "bad guy." Genesis portrays the tempter as a serpent, "who was more subtle than any other wild animal that the Lord God had made." The worst temptations are the subtle ones that persuade us that they are not temptations, but ideas that are fully rational and justifiable.

The tempter always tries to confuse us with suggestive words: "Did God say, 'You shall not eat of any tree in the garden?'" (Maybe politics is the world's oldest profession!). But Eve knew that God had restricted them from eating only the fruit of "the tree in the midst of the garden." She remembered also that God had warned: "... lest you die." Note that Eve rejects the tempter's suggestion, not because God forbade them, but because she is afraid of the dire consequences.

EQUAL WITH GOD!

This is where the tempter excels: he makes us doubt sin's consequences. "You will not die," he tells Eve. "For God knows that when you eat of it your eyes will be opened, and you will be like God knowing good and evil." He suggests a divine conspiracy to keep Adam and Eve from being equal to God. How much more effective these words are than if he had simply said, "Go ahead and disobey God!" Eating the fruit will not be "disobedience" but self-fulfillment (How often we disobey God for the sake of "self fulfillment"!)

Later, when God confronts them, it is evident that the serpent lied. They were not given the power to discern between good and evil, but only to be ashamed of their nakedness. "Who told you that you were naked?", but God already knows the answer. Their shame is not that they are naked, but that they feel naked in God's sight. Now, they have something to hide and he can see them exactly as they are.

I always marvel when I read their self-justifications. Adam blames Eve, even implying that God is also at fault: "The woman whom thou gavest to be with me, she gave me the fruit of the tree..." Eve at tempts to shift the blame too: "The serpent beguiled me..."

It seems no one is ever wrong today. Either we blame our disobedience upon some other person or we are still trying to blame the snake — with the same consequences!

Do you need to:

- Lower Somatic Cell Count?
- Improve breeding efficiency?
- Stimulate appetite?
- Increase milk production?

BOVINE I from Nu-Health is for you!

This unique blend of micronutrients and vitamins has many dairymen talking...

"After using Bovine I for only 30 days, I saw a 23% drop in Somatic Cell Count, an increase in milk production, and most importantly heat cycles were almost immediately more detectable."

HIS DEALER GOES THE EXTRA 112 MILES - DOES YOURS?

What really impresses me is that if I have a problem, it doesn't take Hooper long to fix it. Hooper mechanics are specialized, so no matter what machine it is, there isn't a problem they haven't seen. Plus they care about getting you up and running fast. That's important.

Richard Beachel August 1998

Richard Beachel's luck wasn't running real high. It was harvest and he found himself stuck in the field with a combine that was inoperable because of a blown hydraulic hose. Richard called Hooper's McAlisterville dealer ship, but they didn't have the part in stock. However, Hooper's parts manager at McAlisterville called the Intercourse location and discovered they did have the hose in stock. Because it was in the middle of harvest, Hooper knew Richard needed the part today, not tomorrow. So Hooper's airplane delivered the hose to Richard in less than two hours from the initial call. The hose was replaced and Richard was harvesting again.

CASE

- In the dairy business, income over feed cost is the name of the game. Pro-Lix liquid feed supplements offer dairymen the means to maximize this value while getting the most from their cow's natural abilities.
- Pro-Lix liquid feed supplements are concentrated sources of just what ordinary feeds lack: protein, energy, vitamins, minerals -- everything animals need for economical milk production and growth.
- For replacement heifers, Pro-Lix means faster maturity and assurance that they'll get to the milking herd on time. If you trust your heifers to forage alone, they might not make it. (Bovatec Is Available)
- For lactating cows, the nitrogen content of Pro-Lix means plenty of protein available for milk production and growth.
- Finally, for dry cows, Pro-Lix not only helps maintain their health during the dry period, it prepares them for the next lactation. The Ca:P ratio in Pro-Lix helps control milk fever, while the Vitamin E and selenium aids in clean-up after the birth of a calf.

Best of all, Pro-Lix works with all types of pasture grass or forage, as a free-choice supplement, a top-dressing, or a ration mix.

The payoff is healthier animals and economical production, all year round!

LANCASTER CONSERVATION DISTRICT

Sept. 5, 1998

DEAR FARM OPERATOR,

Is your farm a Concentrated Animal Operation (CAO)?

If so, you need to act soon in order to be in compliance with Pennsylvania's Nutrient Management Act (also known as Act 6).

On Oct. 1, 1997, Pennsylvania's regulations for the Nutrient Management Act went into effect. Under this law, operators of farms fitting the definition of a "CAO" are to develop, submit, and implement an approved Act 6 Nutrient Management Plan. The law states that operators of CAOs are to submit these nutrient management plans to the county conservation district for approval by Oct. 1, 1998.

A CAO is defined as a farm having an animal density of greater than 2,000 pounds of live animal weight per acre of owned and rented land used for manure application.

The purpose of this letter is to remind producers about this law and to offer assistance to affected farmers in complying with the law.

On this page is a "Nutrient Management Information Form." This form is to be completed and returned to the Lancaster County Conservation District by Oct. 1, 1998.

By filling out this form, you will be helping to demonstrate the agricultural industry's support for water quality improvement programs, while at the same time assuring that you are in compliance with this law.

If you operate a CAO, supplying this information will document your farm's intent to comply with this law. This information sheet will be used by the county conservation district to support you and your efforts to comply with the Nutrient Management Act.

If your farm is not a CAO, this information will document your lower animal density and demonstrate that you are not mandated at this time to participate under the law.

Owners of CAOs not in compliance, and who indicate no intent to comply with the law, may face financial penalties by the commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

The farm community was very active in the development of the Nutrient Management Act program. This program has been designed with the understanding that the agricultural community will come forward to comply as they are required.

It is important that the agricultural community be responsive in fulfilling its responsibilities under this law. If this law is found to be unsuccessful in getting farmers to participate, a more aggressive approach may be imposed by the federal or state government to address manure and fertilizer practices associated with animal agriculture.

Please note that, while many farmers have developed and implemented nutrient management plans in the past, only those plans written by a certified nutrient management specialist after Oct. 1, 1997, that were made to meet Act 6 standards, and were approved by a conservation district, will bring a farming operation into compliance with Pennsylvania's Nutrient Management Act.

Farmers with existing plans are urged to have their plans reviewed and updated to meet Act 6 standards.

There are no religious exemptions provided under Act 6.

If you have any questions or need assistance, please contact Kevin Seibert or Ben Ehrhart, nutrient management specialists, at the Lancaster County Conservation District.

The conservation district is available to assist and support you in any way that we can, in your efforts to comply with this law.

We will gladly assist you with your animal density calculation, provide you with the names of certified nutrient management planners, help you to obtain any available cost-share for plan development and implementation, and help you in understanding the requirements of the law and any other aspects of the program.

We are sincerely interested in seeing this program be a success in protecting our local water quality, and in protecting the reputation of the agricultural community as it demonstrates that it is responsive to participating in efforts to protect our water resources.

Thank you in advance for your efforts in complying with the Nutrient Management Act.

Yours for a better environment,

Kevin R. Seibert

Calculate Your Farm's Livestock Density

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff
HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Pennsylvania's livestock farmers need to know whether their operations are considered "concentrated animal operations" (CAO) under the state Nutrient Management Act, in order to be sure to file a mandatory nutrient management plan before the Oct. 1 deadline.

The law requires existing CAOs to file a plan by that date or face possible penalties.

Also, in order to receive 75-percent cost sharing for plan development, the determination of being a CAO or not is necessary.

Because the nature of the real world is that it most often doesn't fit well into neat, easy descriptions, it has become necessary to develop some tool for calculating how much manure pollution-potential a livestock operation has.

That tool is a calculation of "animal density" used as an indicator of manure pollution potential.

Under the state Nutrient Management Act, those livestock operations that have more than 2 "Animal Equivalent Units" (AEUs) per acre of land available to receive manure are CAOs — considered potentially environmentally risky operations, and thus required to develop and file a nutrient management plan.

Simply, a management plan describes the farm operation and how the manure is to be managed to prevent pollution of surrounding ground and surface water.

Deciding whether a livestock operation falls within the definition of being a CAO is a little more tricky, because a farmer, consultant, or official has to calculate the farm's AEUs, and the acreage of land available.

The easiest of the two to figure out is the number of acres of land available to receive manure. It has to be cropland, hay land or pasture-land. It can not be forestland or farmstead (lawn area around farmhouse and buildings).

That land must also be under direct control of the farm operator.

Calculating AEUs is not really all that difficult, but does require some use of factual data from the operation.

AEUs are determined based on the farm's annual livestock production.

To determine number of AEUs, take the number of animals per species, multiply it by the average weight of those animals in pounds, divide by 1,000 pounds (one AEU), multiply it by the number of days the animals are actually on the farm producing manure, then divided by 365 (days).

Total AEUs for each type of animal = (number of animals) x (average animal weight in pounds) ÷ 1,000 x (number of average animal production days per year) ÷ 365

Conservation Districts Remind Farmers

the law has given existing high-density operations one year to submit plans for approval.

Under the law, those farms requiring plans are those with a calculated "animal equivalent unit per acre" density of more than "2."

In Pennsylvania, an animal equivalent unit (AEU) is 1,000 pounds, liveweight, of any livestock. Therefore any farm with more than 2,000 pounds of animals per acre of land that can receive manure as a crop nutrient and soil amendment must file an official plan.

Just because a farm has a nutrient management plan doesn't mean it is an official nutrient management plan.

Those plans created under the Chesapeake Bay Program, through local municipal requirements, or to satisfy a lender's requirements, do not count.

An official plan needs to be made.

However, if a livestock operation has an existing plan, the cost for conversion into an official plan shouldn't cost much.

To help farmers do their own calculations to determine if their operation is required to have a plan, conservation districts can either do the calculations for farmers (based on information provided by the farm operator), or provide worksheets for the farmer to do the calculations for themselves.

Penn State Extension offices should be able to provide help as well, if not the worksheets.

The calculations are designed to provide a reasonable estimate of the water pollution potential from animal manure production, based on the number and sizes of animals being raised.

Since the raising of animals implies that the animals will grow over time, the calculations take into account groupings of animals on the farm and the average weights.

For example, if an 100-acre farm has 200 cattle, that doesn't mean it has 2 AEUs, but it could. It depends on the typical animal weight on the farm.

If the example farm typically had 200 1,200-pound beef cattle on feed, it would definitely be interpreted to be greater than 2 AEUs per acre.

For situations where a variety of species exist, each species should be handled separately to gain estimates of animal weight; the same holds true within species for the subgroupings, such as with farrowing sows and feeder pigs.

The reminder to existing CAOs about filing a nutrient management plan is being made because of the upcoming deadline and because Pennsylvania's nutrient management plan is being challenged by federal regulations by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

The U.S. EPA has its own national strategy for pushing states into adopting nutrient management laws and practices. There are some differences between what Pennsylvania law is, and what the EPA has been pushing.

Instead of using the term CAO, the EPA instead calls high-density livestock operations "CAFO's, which stands for "concentrated animal feeding operation."

Instead of calculating animal equivalent units the same way, the federal unit is different.

Pennsylvania's proposal to comply with the EPA CAFO strategy has been available to the general public for more than a month, and the original comment deadline was extended until mid-October.

One of the main thrusts of the Pennsylvania CAFO-compliance proposal is to issue NPDES (National Pollution Discharge Elimination System) permits.

The permits have been required for various work, especially earth moving activities that disturb 5 acres or more.

However, the NPDES aspect of the proposal is somewhat strange, because farming operations have always been considered non-point discharge sources of nutrients, and NPDES permits were created for point-source operations (i.e. those with pipes discharging waste water into streams, etc.)

As part of the proposal, a modified NPDES permit would be required for all Pennsylvania farms requiring a nutrient management plan.

Feeding the Lactating Cow - Article 14

Goal Get cows off to a good start early in lactation, and sustain good performance thru to dryoff time

- Maintain normal rumen function.
- Maximize DMI.

- Prevent excessive flesh loss, and then regain lost flesh quickly
- Prevent early lactation metabolic problems
- Encourage peak production and persistency of production.
- Maintain normal levels of milk components
- Get the cow to conceive.
- Prepare the cow for dry off.

Some suggestions for helping cows accomplish these goals include

- 1 Get cows eating soon after calving.
 - Feed abundant amounts of good quality forage to cows soon after calving. This will help maintain good rumen function, good DMI, and normal component levels in milk
 - After calving, as soon as their appetites pick up, gradually start feeding more grain and more of the milking ration, but always be sure the cows are eating good amounts of forage first. Once they have met their minimum forage needs, then work on grain intakes, but be careful not to throw them off feed.
- 2 In early lactation, feed according to flesh condition, not according to milk production
 - Maximize DMI in an effort to reduce weight loss and to get cows back into good working flesh as soon as possible. Aim for a body condition score of about 2.5 to 3.0
 - This provides cows the energy base they need for good milk production and persistency of production, good conception and good long term health. Cows should peak higher. That's important because every pound of peak milk equates to about 225 lb. more milk per lactation
 - Once cows have returned to good flesh, then you can feed them according to milk production
 - Milk production peaks about 2-3 months into lactation, and DMI doesn't peak until about 1 month later. See Figure 1. Consequently, cows will usually lose weight for about 3 to 4 months (see Figure 2). After that time, they may start getting back into a positive energy balance, start gaining weight, and then start to conceive.
- 3 Monitor weight loss by observing cows' body condition. Figure 3 depicts desirable body condition changes and desirable scores throughout the lactation. The goals are

Have cows calve at a body score of about 3.5.

- Prevent cows from losing more than 1 body score after calving. If they lose too much flesh too fast they are apt to get ketosis

Calculate Your Farm's Livestock Density

The total number of AEU's for each species is added up, divided by the number of acres that can receive manure, and the AEU's per acre is determined.

If it is more than 2.0 AEU's (if it is 2.1 AEU's, a plan must be filed), submit a plan by Oct. 1.

If it isn't, a voluntary plan can still be filed.

Those requiring a plan can receive 75-percent cost-share money to have the plan developed, but only for plan work done after the funding has been approved.

Funding will be available only for CAOs through Sept. 30. After that date, funding is to be made available to both CAOs and those seeking to file volunteer plans.

For those without knowledge of the average weights of their livestock, for use in making the AEU calculations a table of standard animal weights has been provided by the State Conservation Commission, the agency that has the authority to implement and enforce Pennsylvania's Nutrient Management Act.

Those tables are available at local conservation districts.

If a farmer has records of the actual weights of animals on the farm, those statistics can be used to calculate an operation's AEU's per acre.

For more information, call or visit a local conservation district office.

Management Basics

- Restore flesh quickly to a working level of about 3.0
- Don't let scores drop below 2.5, conception rates drop fast at this level and reproduction literally shuts down at a score of about 2.0.
- Don't let scores get above 4.0 These cows are unhealthy They have poor immune responses, more calving problems, sluggish appetites, they lose flesh more rapidly, become thinner and are more prone to get ketosis
- Start early and prepare to dry off all cows at a uniform score of about 3.5 Remember, it takes time to put flesh on cows that are still pumping a lot of milk At a pound per day gain in weight, it may take 3-4 months to improve body condition score by 1 (ie from 2.5 to 3.5) One body condition score is about 8-10% of a cow's body weight, that's about 120 lb for a 1350 lb cow

Figure 3

Body Condition Scores by Stage of Lactation

Guidelines:

- * Keep body scores between the 2 lines on the graph; aim for near the middle.
- * Limit body condition loss to less than 1 full score within 70 days of calving. Greater losses are associated with poor conception rates. More rapid losses cause ketosis, fatty livers and poor immune response. One body condition score is about 123 lbs, or about 10% of body weight.
- * Don't let body condition scores drop below 2.5, or go over 4.0. Below 2.5, conception rates, milk production and milk components drop. Over 4.0, depressed appetites cause excessive loss of flesh, ketosis, etc
- * Get cows in positive energy balance (gain weight) 70-90 days after calving, otherwise, conception is delayed and cows may lack flesh at dryoff time.
- * Dry cows off at code 3.5. To gain 1 full score, cows must gain 1 lb of flesh per day for 4 months, this is in addition to growth and body development
- * Don't let dry cows drop in body condition scores
- If fat, don't thin cows down; if thin, feed for moderate gain

Committee Survey Of Member, Parental Concerns To Assay State Youth Dairy Show Program

system, what benefits parents see from showing. It covers a lot of different areas."

There are two survey forms, one for parents and one for the youth.

There are 38 questions for the parents (one parental response per family or individual, if one child), and 36 questions for youth.

Some of the questions ask for basic information, such as name, breed shown, number of animals, number of shows, etc. A couple of questions allow for short written responses.

Most of the questions, however, are multiple-choice, designed to be used for program evaluation.

The results of the survey are to be compiled and tabulated. The findings are to be reported to the state Junior Dairy Show Advisory Committee during its meeting in October.

Members of the committee are elected representatives from each show district.

The state youth dairy program is offered and organized cooperatively by Penn State University's College of Agricultural Sciences Extension and Outreach (which includes 4-H, an Extension-run program), and FFA. Those with FFA are essentially its local club organization leaders, primarily high school vocational agriculture and agricultural sciences instructors.

Because of the changing nature of the dairy industry, the changing nature of people's lives and schedules, there have been some changes to the program implemented over the past decade.

For a number of years now, the state dairy show, held annually at the state Farm Show Building Complex in Harrisburg in conjunction with the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show, has combined 4-H and FFA members in competition. (This year, the state show is to be held Sept. 21.)

Previously, the 4-H and FFA state shows were separate.

As the number of dairy-focused members in each of the two youth organizations has declined over the years, and the difference in competitive advantage of FFA members over 4-H disappeared, the state show eliminated membership distinctions.

Three years ago, the district shows were likewise combined.

Additionally, participation in a district show was opened up to any FFA or 4-H member in the state. Previously the district shows were restricted to 4-H and FFA members in the counties included in the district region.

The opening up of the district shows was done for several reasons.

Among them was the fact that some of the FFA-only shows were poorly attended, but would require as much support and organizational effort as a well-attended 4-H show at the same place.

It was also done because of scheduling conflicts for exhibitors, such as having to work a summer job for college, having to start college, being on the road showing at county fairs and breed organization competitions, involvement in sports programs, and in some cases, going on family vacations.

Despite the diminishing number of youth directly involved with raising dairy cattle, following the decline of the number of family dairy farm operations, the state youth dairy show has continued to grow.

"I think (the changes made to date) had many positive effects," Olver said.

He said that, from the standpoint of exhibitors, the changes allow them a great amount of flexibility in attending a district show.

For example, they can register an animal for a particular show early in the season, but if the animal should become ill close to that show, they can drop the animal out of that show, get the animal's health regained, and still attend a district show to qualify for the state show.

The changes have also eliminated some of the poorly attended shows, and evened out participation among all district shows, Olver said.

For local 4-H and FFA organizers it has added some work, however.

Different counties have different prerequisites, and 4-H and FFA leaders in those counties with strict restrictions have to ensure that their youth fulfill the state requirement for showing — that each member be "in good standing."

"So, if (the youth) don't follow all the county rules, they are not a member in good standing," Olver said.

That means the local leaders must keep track of the youth from their area, no matter where the youth end up attending a district show.

In order to qualify an animal to show at a district and state show, the animal must receive a "blue" ribbon from a judge.

The judge's awarding of a blue ribbon indicates that the animal is of sufficient quality so as to be competitive at a higher level.

Some counties also have additional prerequisite restrictions on its youth's qualifications to participate in the state show, such as having to attend the county 4-H roundup, local show, or attend a certain percentage of club meetings.

Some have suggested that the growth in participation at the state show — which means more blue ribbons being awarded at county and district levels — is due to the increase in quality of dairy animals available to youth, through breed organization improvement and artificial insemination.

Others have suggested that more youth are involved because there are more family farms depending on the sale of breeding stock in addition to milk, and the honors bestowed animals at any and all shows can be used in the promotion of a breeding line of cattle.

Whatever the reason, the state show last year saw 1,100 animals entered (representing six breeds), and more than 800 exhibited.

That makes it one of the largest state dairy youth shows in the nation.

Olver said this week that it appears, even with several district shows to go, that this year's state show may well exceed last year's. It may well be the nation's largest youth dairy showing.

For those suspicious of surveys, it is not being done in any attempt to curb participation at the state show or to provide statistical support to forward a personal agenda.

Rather, it is only being done to gauge the level of satisfaction and comfort the existing program and system offers youth exhibitors and their parents.

Olver said other states have different systems for establishing pre-qualifications for state shows — ranging from going directly from the county level to the state level without a district show, or each county being assigned a particular quota it can send to the state.

He said that the advisory committee is committed to the district system.

"We've had good response to the survey," Olver said. "It's been very gratifying that parents and exhibitors have taken the time to fill them out."

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — A 5-year-old Holstein owned by Heather Brubaker, of Manheim, on Thursday was named the supreme champion dairy animal of the youth dairy shows at the Elizabethtown Fair Dairy Show.

Great View B-Star Mabel, a 5-year-old Holstein exhibited by Heather Brubaker, daughter of Lowell and Deb Brubaker, of Hilltop Heritage Holsteins, was named supreme champion in the final competition of the Elizabethtown Fair's dairy shows of the Holstein and Jersey breeds.

Judge of the dairy shows and youth showmanship competitions was Alan Hostetter, of Dale-Pride Holsteins in Annville, Lebanon County.

The Elizabethtown Fair supreme dairy animal competition is for youth exhibitors, but both grand champions of each breed carried dual division grand championships; for the open and youth divisions.

Andrew Dice, of Blue Mountain View Farm in Fredericksburg, Lebanon County, exhibited the grand champion Jersey of both the youth and open division shows. His 8-year-old Marantha Deacons Cherub received praise from show judge for its age, height of udder floor above the hocks, strength and stature, but he gave the advantage to the Holstein, which had won best udder in its breed show, for being more correct and exhibiting more dairyness on Thursday.

In the rest of the Holstein open division show, the reserve grand and reserve senior champion was a 3-year-old, Seven-Gen Rail Donna, owned by Clair Oberholtzer of Elizabethtown, the seventh generation to farm on the home farm.

The open division junior champion Holstein was a senior yearling, Donegal Creek Bellwood Alta-ET, bred and owned by Joe Wivell of Elizabethtown.

The reserve junior champion of the open division and the junior champion of the youth division was a junior yearling, Hilltop Heritage Astrojet Fidelle, owned by Blake Brubaker, Heather's brother.

The reserve grand champion of the youth division Holstein show was a 4-year-old, Hilltop Heritage Astre Bobbie, exhibited by Blake Brubaker.

The reserve junior champion of the youth division was an intermediate yearling, Donegal Creek Bellwood Rachel, owned by Justin Wivell, Joe's son.

In the Jersey breed open division, the reserve senior and reserve grand champion was a 4-year-old, Blue Mountain Yankee Adrienne, owned by Harold Dice.

The junior champion Jersey was a junior yearling, Blue Mountain Fascinator Martha, owned by Diane Dice.

Andrew Dice showed the reserve junior champion, a summer yearling, Stony Acres Smiley Beretta. It was also the junior champion and reserve grand champion of the youth division.

Not Too Late For PAADS Entries

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — There's still time to be part of the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show, celebrating 35 years of great dairy cattle shows, challenging youth competitions and exciting cattle sales.

The late entry deadline was Sept. 2, but a new rule allows entries postmarked after Sept. 2 to be accepted at a fee of $100 per animal. These entries received or hand-delivered to the dairy cattle superintendent, will be accepted until 3 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 20.

The Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show, the largest dairy exhibition on the East Coast, is held in the Farm Show Complex, Maclay and Cameron Sts., Harrisburg. The Farm Show Complex is a totally indoor facility, boasting the best accommodations and milking facility anywhere on the show circuit. The milking parlor has the capacity to milk 36 animals simultaneously.

Exhibitors at the show are treated to numerous amenities, such as continental milk and donuts breakfast, a free USA Today newspaper, and on all-you-can-eat buffet on Wednesday night of the show.

With a definite focus on youth, the show has many features to make their experience a memorable one. That, along with lots of old-fashioned hospitality, makes the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show a great place to show and exhibit cattle. Everyone is welcome.

The 35th anniversary All-American Dairy Show opens Sunday, Sept. 20, with a ribbon cutting ceremony at noon.

There is a new Dairy Antiques and Collectibles show in the Dairy Activity Center, which continues all week. The show concludes on Thursday, Sept. 24.

rural land and you think you are not affected, yet whenever someone builds or puts a trailer on the bottom land, you are affected by environmental pressure.

"I don't believe you ever have seen a parking lot plowed up for farming again. It is always a one way street," Davidson said. "We are going in the right direction. The price of milk is up and milk production has only increased marginally. It has not kept up with demand. People have discovered that substitutes are not better for you. The butter is better than the substitutes. Now they tell me after my heart attack.

"We are seeing the free market working to drive the price of milk up. Now we see people say we don't need the Dairy Compact. But the Compact not only helps dairy-men, it helps even out the price for consumers too, so you don't have the wild roller coaster sweeps in price. So, it is even more apparent that we need the Dairy Compact."

In the awards program Richard Coyne was the recipient of the 1998 Person of Distinction award for the Dairy of Distinction program. In presenting the award William Underwood, chairman of the New York State program, said that in this the 14th year of a program that was expected to last 10 years, the program continues to grow. Interest from farmers across the state bring in new applications every year and has made the program a continuing success.

Coyne was a member of the board of directors from the beginning. He lives on the family farm in Avon, New York, and farms with his brother Jerry, two sons Shawn and Greg, and nephew Malachy. They farm 1700 acres, 1300 owned. He started with 25 cows and through the 4-H program got interested in purebred cattle. They own 700 milk cows, mostly purebred Holsteins.

Judge Ken Empey has his work cut out in the large classes. Here the 4 year-old class has 20 entries. A large crowd has gathered to watch this very strong Holstein show. Elmvue Farm, Millerton, N.Y., had both the grand and the reserve grand champion of the show.

He has been president of the New York State Holstein Association and served on the board of directors of the National Holstein Association.

The cheese and butter awards, the Lafargeville branch of Crowley Foods, took the grand champion award.

In the milk processor awards, went to Crowley Foods, Albany and Wendt's Dairy, Niagara Falls.

In the 300 head Holstein Show with classes of 20 or more entries was staged in the Coliseum during Dairy Day at the Fair.

When Judge Ken Empey had made the final selections, C Woodfield Inspiration Lou, the beautiful aged cow entered in the 125,000lb. milk class by Elmvue Farm, Millerton, N.Y. was named grand champion. Elmvue's C Desailles Counsel Alexine entered in the 6y and over class was named reserve grand champion.

Other features included a very large butter sculpture, the milk bar with the 25 cent cup of milk, cheese making demonstrations, a cheese auction, and a celebrity milk shake making contest.

Conservation Districts

Further, the EPA is also proposing that the permits be required for any farm with more than a certain number of animals, regardless of the land available for manure application.

Although there are many questions still left unanswered about what effect the federal initiatives will have upon Pennsylvania's Nutrient Management Act regulations, it doesn't mean that the state will allow forgiveness for missing the Oct. 1 mandatory deadline for its own Nutrient Management Act.

In essence, in Pennsylvania mandatory plans are required for farm operations with more than 2,000 pounds (2 AEUs; one AEU equals 1,000 pounds) of livestock per acre of owned or rented farm land that can receive manure as a nutrient.

Farm operators with questions as to whether their farm operation exceeds that 2,000-pound threshold should call their conservation district.

For consideration in determining whether a nutrient management plan is required or not, it is important to remember that the land receiving manure from a livestock operation must be under the control of the livestock farm operator.

It can not merely be a neighbor's

Lancaster Farming, Saturday, September 5, 1998-A35

farmland who has agreed to accept manure.

However, it can be a neighbor's farmland if, in fact, the livestock producer has direct control over the crops being planted and harvested and the timing and amount of manure applications to that land.

Those without sufficient land under their control can create their own plan, if authorized by the state to do so; or file a plan professionally written that indicates that a neighbor is accepting the manure.

That neighbor, if he raises only crops, or doesn't raise enough livestock to be required to file his own plan, is not required to file a nutrient management plan.

Only those farms that raise livestock are of concern.

It was previously reported that very early and rough state estimates of the number of potential CAOs in the state was about 2,500.

According to a published report and several opinions from those working closely with the issue, it appears that a number of farmers with operations close to the threshold for being required to file an official plan have altered their operations so as to no longer be considered a candidate for a mandatory plan.

In the meantime, the state is still finishing a new estimate of the number of operations that are required to file plans, and it is expected that the number should better reflect current livestock operations.

Shoemaker's Simmental Captures Grand Champion Heifer Honor At Bedford Fair

BUFFALO MILLS (Bedford Co.) — Shoemaker's Miss Pride, owned by Bill Shoemaker, captured supreme champion heifer at the 125th Great Bedford County Fair.

Born January 3, 1996, this red non-dilutor heifer was described by Judge Pete LeVan, herdsman at Penn State University, as the type of beef cow the industry needs now and in the future. She showed tremendous thickness and volume for a nursing heifer.

Miss Pride is the mother of the fair's reserve champion Simmental bull, Shoemaker's Top Gun.

MCB Airbus, co-owned by Bill Showmaker and Matthew Miller, was named the grand champion Simmental bull. Airbus is sired by Black Mick and his dam is Shoemaker's Black Dream, who was the 1995 Pennsylvania State Farm Show grand champion heifer.

Bennecoff Siblings Sweep Allentown Swine Breed Show

ANDY ANDREWS

Lancaster Farming Staff
ALLENTOWN (Lehigh Co.)—

Though there were no official nicknames, Todd Lee and his sister, Justine, should have named their champion hogs "Durobility" and "Porkshire," respectively.

After all, Todd Lee Bennecoff Jr.'s supreme champion gilt at Allentown, a Duroc, came from a breed known for its efficient utilization of feed and a correct structure that makes her "durable," according to the judge.

And Justine Bennecoff's Yorkshire (what the judge calls the "Porkshire") supreme champion boar shows off its "balance of all the merits in modern-day breeding swine," said Don Verhoff, a breeder of Landrace and Duroc swine out of Ottawa, Ohio.

Verhoff noted that the Yorkshire included "well-designed, correct feet and toes, a heavy structure, and a body capacity to match, yet with leanness."

Verhoff judged the two-day swine show, which included 32 exhibitors and 325 hogs (the numbers are up from last year), Wednesday and Thursday this week.

But Verhoff was quick to point out that both the gilt and boar were picked as supreme because they exhibit "the supreme ideals of breed character and structure."

Todd Lee, 10, is the son of Todd and Cheryl Bennecoff, Kutztown. For Todd, it was the first supreme champion gilt at the Allentown Fair.

The gilt, a 4-H project hog, had an official name: Atlas Power (S: BSH7 Atlas, D: CLL5 Horse Power), a February gilt. This was the third time the Duroc gilt won supreme champion, according to Cheryl Bennecoff. The hog won supreme at the Pennsylvania Fair near Philadelphia and the Sussex County, N.J. Fair recently. The hog was homebred.

Todd, named overall champion of the swine competition at the fair, is in his third year with the Lehigh County 4-H Swine Club. He's in the fifth grade at Northwestern Middle School.

Justine, 8, is in the third grade at Weisenburg Elementary. She showed the supreme champion boar, a Yorkshire February boar, with a registration name of Vintage (S: SHF7 Vintage, D: CBH7 Tillie). Justine won champion boar out of the open class.

There are several more shows planned for the Bennecoffs, including the Sullivan County Fair, Bloomsburg, York, the Keystone International Livestock Expo, county roundup, and Farm Show.

Supreme market swine champion went to Elizabeth Wisser, 17, daughter of Tutty and Larry Wisser, New Tripoli. The senior at Northwestern High School showed a 270-pound heavyweight Landrace-Yorkshire gilt purchased from a farm in Mertztown.

The seven-year Lehigh County 4-H Swine Club member, also named reserve overall showmanship champion, said she selected the hog, champion of the aged market class, to show for its length and leanness. She has studied floriculture at the vo-tech school and hopes to be a florist someday. She will be showing at Reading and Farm Show.

The judge noted the market hog exhibited lots of "structure and product in one package."

Following is a list of show placings.

Company Celebrates 20th Year

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — At the 20th anniversary of the founding of Brubaker Agronomics Consulting Service, 150 farmers attended a field day to view the results of crop protection products in field trials. The event held at the Schantz farm located east of Ephrata off route 272 was one of many held this year to host nearly 1,000 farmers at the privately owned independent ag research farm.

Owner Mike Brubaker said the research projects are chosen by consensus from both farmers and industry people who see what the needs are in the fields. Brubaker has a large number of acres under consulting contract which gives his people a broad view of field problems.

Farm manager Robert Kauffman agrees. "We get a lot of requests from farmers who want to see how products are performing," Kauffman said. "Here we do a lot of variety, row spacing and population trials, too."

The field day included farm wagon tours that stopped at designated points of research. A later fall field day is scheduled for October 1 to show the harvest phase of the growing season trials.

U.S. Rep. Pitts Visits Farmers

Congressman Joseph Pitts, R16, visited farms in his district Wednesday, to bring news from Washington and hear what farmers were saying at the grassroots level. In the photo, he is visiting with farmers at Cherry Hill Farm, owned by Jack and Donna Coleman, Paradise. Other stops on his second annual tour were White Rock Farm owned by Les and Lois Hershey, Kirkwood; Kimbertal Kennels owned by Robert and Neda Yarnall, Kimberton; and Silver Maple Farm, owned by Glen and Eileen Engle, Cochranville.

American Highland Cattle Association Celebrates 50

GATLINBURG, Tenn. — To celebrate the 50th anniversary of their association's founding, Highland cattle breeders from throughout the United States will gather here Oct. 1-4 for their 1998 National Convention.

Highland cattle originated in Scotland perhaps as early as the sixth century. Their genetics have remained basically unchanged through the year. Qualities that have all but disappeared in other breeds are what make highlands so unique today. They are especially noted for their hardiness, disease resistance, calving ease, mothering instincts, docile nature, browsing ability, thriftiness and longevity, with many cows calving into their late teens.

Highland beef is rapidly becoming popular in the United States, as consumers are willing to pay more for premium aged beef. European-trained chefs prefer Highland beef due to its superior quality, texture and leanness. It has historically commanded premium prices from the discriminating British beef consumer and is served in the finest country-house hotels. During the last few years, several enterprises have started to expand herd numbers to meet the demand for this beef. Market expansion is in white tablecloth restaurants, major natural food supermarkets, and mail-order gourmet customers.

Open house seminars are planned during the convention. For more information, contact the American Highland Cattle Association at 200 Livestock Exchange Building, 4701 Marion St. Denver, CO 80216, (303) 292-9102, fax: (303) 292-9171, or e-mail: ahca@envisionet.net

Contract Farming

There is possibly no more controversial issue facing production agriculture today than the debate over contract animal production. The purpose of this article is to attempt to provide some facts associated with contract farming and modern agriculture.

Contract farming began in the 1950s in the broiler industry and was implemented in the hog industry in the 1970s. A farmer is the contract grower in the part of a system called vertical integration. Vertical integration, in its most simple definition, combines production, processing, and distribution of a commodity into one entity. Most companies in Pennsylvania, integrators for lack of a better word, are not fully integrated.

Separate companies rely on their relationships with other segments of the industry to provide all the pieces to the "farm to fork" puzzle. For example, in most situations the farmer is only asked to provide the land, buildings, equipment, and labor to fulfill his obligations in the contract. The integrator then supplies the animals, feed, medications and technical support to the operation. By working together both owners are able to gain advantages and reduce their exposure.

Some advantages to contract growers include:

- 1) Reduced capital investment (does not have to buy animals, feed, or medication)
- 2) Protection from price volatility

- 3) Guaranteed income
 - 4) Technical assistance provided
 - 5) Ability to diversify operation on limited number of acres
- Some advantages to the integrator include:
- 1) Reduced capital investment (does not need to buy land or buildings)
 - 2) Efficiency usually improved
 - 3) A known quantity can be produced on a schedule
 - 4) Reduction in labor requirements

There are some down sides to the contracts as well. For the farmer it means they may not be able to take advantage of unusually high market prices and do not actually own the animals. For integrators, the main disadvantage is that they must absorb the losses in a low market price period.

One of the primary criticisms of contract farming and intensive livestock production in general, relates to the environment. A contract's ability to provide a stable and predictable income to a farmer is often overshadowed by a perception of increased environmental risk. The fact is a contract can increase environmental consciousness in an operation that prior to any construction must meet strict natural resource criteria. Most loans won't even be considered for approval without a Nutrient Management Plan, whether it is required or not. Granted, anything stored in one location can concentrate a potential hazard but it also allows for increased protections and cautionary measures to be properly installed and implemented. It's easier to catch fish in a pond than in Lake Erie.

Many people assert that farmers who construct buildings for the purpose of becoming a contract grower have forfeited their status as a "family farm." Well, the truth of the matter is the contract a farmer signs, which guarantees a steady source of income, may be the one thing that helps keep their family on the farm. Sustainability today means farming tomorrow.

LAST YEAR 2518 1679

CATTLE: Compared to last week's closing prices, slaughter steers sold steady to weak. The market's potential looked good early in the week, but by Thursday pressure loomed and prices slipped slightly lower in the face of the three-day weekend and reduced slaughter rates. Western feedlots lost yet another dollar this week with the bulk of sales posted at 56.00. However, cattle feeders will get little sympathy from hog producers as local hog prices dropped as much as 8.00 this week. Local Holstein steers closed .50-1.00 lower and heifers ended mostly steady in a light test. Slaughter cows finished .50-1.00 lower and slaughter bulls sold steady to .50 lower. This week's supply was made up of around 39 percent slaughter steers, 5 percent slaughter heifers, 37 percent slaughter cows, 6 percent bulls and the balance were feeder cattle.

Holstein Association Offers IP, PC System

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. — The TAG ID program has helped many producers get caught up on registrations and the Holstein Association has found another way to simplify the identification process by using on-farm PCS and EASY, the Electronic Application System.

Producers using EASY can simply mail the diskette or file transfer the Applications for Registration to the Holstein Association. EASY is an IBM-compatible software program (available in both DOS and Windows®) that electronically fills out Applications for Registration, then stores the information on disk. EASY can also read from several herd management systems such as PCDART, Dairy Comp, DHI Plus, etc., to speed up the identification process.

EASY 3.0, an upgrade to accommodate the American ID numbering system, is available and should be used for all future electronic registry applications. The new herdbook design with the Registered Holstein Ancestry (RHA) percent has been programmed to replace the IHF, Qualified and Registered levels. The new NAAB code number with the country codes is also incorporated in the program.

EASY for Windows runs on a 486SX-33 MHZ computer (minimum) with a minimum of 8 MB of RAM and a minimum of 2 MB of free hard disk space. The user has to have Windows 3.1, 3.11, Windows 95 or Windows NT installed to run EASY for Windows.

Technical assistance is available from the EASY Support Group between the hours of 8 a.m. and 9 p.m. Call 800-952-5200 and ask for the computer support line for assistance in using EASY, or ask for the Customer Service Department for more information about EASY.

FARMER Dinner Set

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) — Area farmers are invited to attend a fund-raising dinner for FARMER taking place September 17 in Clarks Summit.

FARMER (Farmers Allied for Responsible More Effective Representation) is the bi-partisan political action committee of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau. FARMER is dedicated to helping elect and keep friends of agriculture in the Pennsylvania General Assembly. Farm Bureau is a non-governmental, voluntary statewide organization which represents over 26,000 farm and rural families.

The FARMER dinner will be held at the Ramada Plaza Hotel on Rt. 6 Clarks Summit starting at 6:30 p.m.

"I believe we have a very interesting program planned," said FARMER Committee member Fred Tiffany of Athens, Bradford County. "It will be a forum to evaluate the two candidates for the 10th Congressional District seat being vacated by Congressman McDade. Both Patrick Casey, the Democratic candidate, and Don Sherwood, the Republican contender, will give their views on key agricultural issues in Washington. All interested farmers are invited to attend."

The cost of the FARMER dinner is $35 per person, or $50 per person and spouse. Tickets can be obtained by sending a personal check, payable to "FARMER" to: PA Farm Bureau, Governmental Relations Division, P.O. Box 8736, Camp Hill, PA 17001-8736. Deadline for reservations is Sept. 11.

Interspersed among a busy day of gardening and operating a produce stand, Ruth and Russell Sauder find time for hobbies. Ruth enjoys growing flowers. Here she examines the large delicate blooms of the passionflower. According to legend, the intricate parts of the lacy-appearing flowers are said to represent Christ's crucifixion. Russell is shown with part of his collection of toy tractors and pedal tractors that he restores. His expertise in restoring the tractors spreads by word of mouth and he has completed work for collectors across the U.S.

Sauder Home Blooms With Rewards Of Their Labor

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff
MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — Ruth Sauder fingers a large vine that grows by the porch of her home. The 12-foot tall vine blooms with large delicate purple flowers and is heavy with fragrance.

"These are blooming like everything, but you never know. Some days they don't open at all or only after three in the afternoon," she said.

Ruth is referring to the blooms of a climbing woody vine called passionflower.

The intricate lacy-appearing flowers bloom for only one day and then die, but enough blooms remain on the vine to provide color for at least one month.

According to legend, passionflower is a plant whose elaborate flower parts are said to represent Christ's crucifixion. Early missionaries are said to have named the plants.

The missionaries believed that the 10 colored petals represented the 10 apostles present at the crucifixion. Inside the flower, colored filaments form a showy crown, which was thought to represent the crown of thorns. The five pollen-bearing anthers suggested Christ's wounds. The divisions of the pistil represented the nails of the cross. The bladelike leaf was symbolic of the spear that pierced His side. The coiling tendrils suggested whips and cords.

Ruth has always loved flowers, but said that she didn't have time to grow them until she and her husband Russel moved off the farm where they also had operated a bed and breakfast.

"In those days, we gave them lodging, breakfast, and supper," Ruth said. The couple had five guest bedrooms open for guests over an 18-year-period.

The supposedly retired couple now live in a brick rancher located on the edge of the Sauder's Century Farm, which is operated by their son Glen, his wife Shirley, and their children. A daughter Nancy Stoltzfus and her husband Jay live nearby.

Don't let that word "retired" fool you. Ruth, who is 77, and Russell, who is 78, operate a bustling farm stand and grow produce in their one-half acre garden to sell. Ruth keeps busy with her many indoor and outdoor plants. Russell has a large collection of toy and pedal tractors and makes wooden benches and wooden riding toys to sell. He also refinishes furniture and restores sewing machines and chairs.

As she talks, Ruth keeps busy straightening the assortment of colorful bell peppers, filling containers with freshly washed sweet potatoes.

"These are the best cantaloupes you can buy," said a regular customer. "You won't find better tasting ones anywhere."

The colorful produce picked during the peak of maturity attracts a steady clientele.

"We only sell what we grow," Russell said.

"This keeps us busy," Ruth said of the produce stand and shakes her head in affirmative when asked if she enjoys outdoor work.

Stuck in the flower bed are two wrought iron plaques that sum up the reason why she and her husband enjoy working with the soil. One reads: "He who works in the garden works hand and hand with God."

Another proclaims: "The kiss of the sun for pardon. The song of the bird for mirth, One is nearer God's heart in the garden than anywhere else on earth."

"God is good," Ruth said. "I have a heart condition so I couldn't do this on my own. But my daughter plants the flowers for me so I can take care of them after that."

Their son and son-in-law help erect poles for the 80 tomato plants in the garden. A grandson grows the cantaloupes.

Inside the couple's modest brick home, Ruth has a large wooden ladder from her parent's farm. The ladder hangs from the ceiling and is used for hanging plants attached with meat hooks, another relic from past days.

Russell has a fascinating collection of pedal tractors and toy tractors. Some are new and some he has restored.

He said, "I restore pedal tractors and ship them all over the U.S."

"One person tells another person and that one tells another one," Russell said of the word spread about his hobby and restoration work.

The couple's home is located across from the Pleasant View Rest Home along Penryn Road.

A row of old shoes and boots bloom profusely with "chicks and peeples." Ruth said that she cuts holes in the sides of the discarded footwear and the plant spreads through the holes.

Russell also makes toys and benches to sell at their roadside stand.

Russell grows all the produce sold at their roadside stand and delights in providing only the best at the peak of flavor.

HOMESTEAD NOTES

Our early morning quiet . . . isn't necessarily.

Even when the noisy, giant fan blowing air across the cows at the barn to counter the steamy humidity is silenced by cooling breezes, other sounds invade that space between dawn and sunrise. The milking system motors, pumps, and compressors hum a steady, dull background. Jarring noises of an eighteen-wheeler connecting with a bump in the interstate pavement floats up through the 'holler.'

And a chorus of assorted bird-songs float down from the maple canopy, including the chirps of the cardinals demanding a bird-feeder refill.

Often during this "quiet" time of day, I log onto the computer to access e-mail and check a couple of regular websites on the Internet. But, on one recent rare occasion, the dial-up failed to make connection. No e-mail or www-website checking in that early morning quiet time.

As the day wore on, though, websites turned up with embarrassing frequency. For as long as I can remember, this phenomenon has occurred annually, as the summer wanes and wobbles toward fall solstice. Reality is, the entire farm has become one big web network. And there are umpteen addresses of the sites, accessible through fww. - FarmWide Web.

One, website, located right on the front door and visible to all who pass through, could be labeled fww.frontdoorwreath.

Host for this website is a small, front-door spider. Its dusty web is neatly woven around the circle of grapevines shaping the door decoration, and carefully attached in among the fluffs and folds of the fading-pink paperhusk bow. From this lair, the spider awaits the assorted bugs it may snag as they are attracted to the porch light and become its breakfast guests. A sort of spider fww.bugbuffet.

Not too far away is another web location, fww.bathroomwindowsscreen. This site, originally installed to discourage insect pests, instead supports a couple of patches of web woven by a cousin to the front-door resident. Surrounded by the patchy web, the spider host enjoys a view of the backyard framed by trees and the vista of contoured fields beyond.

A more highly developed site, with oodles of links to web hosts, caught my attention recently while milking. Several large vented sections in the dairy barn ceiling connect with fans installed high up in the barn attic. It's part of the ventilation system designed to continually exchange the body heat given off by cows with fresh outside air.

At fww.blockbarnventilation, horde of webweavers has strung sites across the four-by-four, metal, louvered vents, constructing huge spider metropolitan areas. Their combined efforts, further layered with fine dust rising from the sawdust bedding we use, providing an efficient barrier to air circulation.

The long-handled shovel that is part of our regular milking equipment, used to clean stalls before attaching the milking machines, proved to be a great way to connect with this website. And wipe it off the network. But not without a shower of dust as the site collapsed into limp lumps of unwanted webbing. That site has been reopened as fww.airmovesagain.

To be honest, the longer one surfs around the farmstead, the more websites become apparent. There's fww.Spanishmoss, the visual effect rendered under the old barn by colonies of spinners. At fww.frilly fences, our artistic arachnids have woven fanciful, symmetric webs among the split-rail that surrounds the yard, truly lovely sites when the dew which gathers on them sparkles in the early-morning sun. And a vast website exists at fww.pureorganicplants, our backyard and garden where the absence of pesticides encourages spider creations hanging on everything from the seven-foot sunflowers to the diminutive and dainty gerbera daisies.

Indeed, our FarmWideWeb is getting highly cluttered and is badly in need of some cleaning up. There is an effective web virus that should do the trick.

You can access it at fww.broomsweeps clean.

Drying Plants From The Garden

It's not too late to start drying annuals and perennials. The best time to gather flowers, herbs, and plants for drying is when the plants are at full bloom. Strip off the leaves, tie the stems tightly together and keep the different types of plants separate. Some annuals good for drying are cockscomb, annual statice, strawflowers, and globe amaranth. Perennials include yarrow, blue salvia and perennial babies' breath. Wild plants worth collecting are Queen Anne's lace, goldenrod and thistle.

The easiest method is to air dry plants. Hang bunches of 10-12 stems upside down in a dark, dry, well-ventilated area like a closet or attic. Remember to keep drying plants out of direct sunlight. For herbs being dried for their fragrance or flavor use a portable laundry rack or wires strung across a wall in a dry room. Cut annuals at the soil line and perennials about one-third down the stem. Include as many side branches as possible.

Since herbs are a food item, they require special care prior to drying. Herbs are at their peak flavor just before flowering. Wash the herbs lightly in cold, running water to remove any soil, dust, insects or other foreign matter. Drain foliage on an absorbent towel and let it dry before moving to the final drying step. Collect them for drying at this time.

To prevent flowers in the composite, family like Queen Ann lace flowers from closing, air dry them right-side-up. A cane-seated chair works well. Chicken wire or cake cooling racks also work.

Dry vines on window screens or racks. This preserves their vining shape and prevents all the flowers from being perfectly straight.

Fragile stems and flowers to be used for decoration should be reinforced with thin wire before drying. This allows you to handle the dried material more easily.

Many herbs and thin-petaled flowers and plants dry within three weeks. The thickness of the stems and plant parts determine the actual length of time needed. Do not rush the process or handle the plants during the drying period.

Blossoms and stems with high moisture content do not air dry well. One method uses a drying agent such as silica gel, sand or borax. Another drying method places plants upright in water. Wait till the water evaporates. Lavendar and chives dry better using this method.

To maintain the shape and texture of delicate flowers and

Wayne Steer Show
The 1998 Junior Market Steer Show was Thursday, Aug. 13 at the Wayne County Fairgrounds in Homesdale. There were 26 animals at the event and the judge for the evening was Larry Weaver of New Holland.

The grand champion steer was shown by Julie Olver of the Bethany Ag and the reserve grand champion steer was shown by Nick Nebzydoski of the Pleasant Mount Go-Getters Club.

The division winners were: champion lightweight, Darryl Marshall and reserve champion lightweight, Daryl Burleigh.

leaves, layer them with silica gel in an airtight container. Silica gel, a granular drying material that looks like sand has blue indicator crystals that turn pink, when they have become saturated with water. Recharge the gel by heating it in a 225 degree oven for several hours to restore the blue color. Silica gel is usually available from florists or their suppliers.

The total silica gel drying process may take from two to four weeks. After the plant or parts have dried, remove them from the container and shake off the silica gel. Use them directly in a sealed container.

Silica gel has also been suggested as a drying method for fleshy or thick stemmed herbs. Thoroughly rinse herbs in clear, cold water, before using in salads, soups and other dishes.

Ida's Notebook

by
Ida Risser

Many families are sending children off to college this month. It is a busy time and many preparations are necessary.

I just read my diary from 1966 when our oldest daughter left for Alfred University in New York state. She was putting in long hours at a local drive-in to make some money. She shopped and sewed some of her own clothes. A big box of books went along with her.

And, while her mind was on college, the other four younger children were busy at public school. Only our youngest, Cindy, was home with me. There were so many fruits to can, clothes to iron, and beans to pick. But we did take time to go deep-sea fishing at Rock Hall, Maryland and caught 48 fish.

The men were busy baling hay and getting cows out of the river. It took a tractor to pull one out while another swam across to a neighbor's animals. Our boys opened a corn field by hand so machinery could start filling silo. Water had to be hauled as a cistern leaked and then was cemented while it was empty.

At that time I had the job of washing milk buckets and milkers everyday. This was my job for years and years. The children loved picnics and ate in the meadow along the Conestoga River. Jeffrey and Judy often baked cookies as we could not keep the jar full with so many hungry ones around.

Today we only hear about one grandson starting Duke University in North Carolina and another granddaughter going to a governor's school in Virginia. Other younger ones are in high school, elementary school and much younger ones in pre-school. How things change!

Protect Your Financial Privacy

1. Guard your Social Security Number. A thief can use it to apply for loans, credit or services in your name. Places that might need your number: employers, government agencies, financial institutions and credit bureaus.

2. Review your credit report once a year to make sure no one else has opened accounts in your name.

3. Don't discuss "sensitive" information over wireless telephones (cellular and portable) - conversations can be intercepted by hand-held radio scanners, or overlap onto other telephone channels.

Celebrate With American Lamb

Fresh American lamb cooked on the grill will add a special touch to your Labor Day celebration.

Turn that hup-drum regular burger into the star of the cookout. Use American ground lamb, which has a delightful mild flavor that can stand on its own or blend well with seasonings.

Several recipes for cooking lamb on the grill are included in today's collection of recipes. You can also substitute lamb in most red meat recipes.

Correct preparation and cooking of lamburgers are important to insure the quality of the product as with all ground meats. Ground lamb should be used within 24 hours of purchase or it should be double-wrapped tightly and frozen for up to three months. Always thaw meat in the refrigerator or in the microwave oven. If using the microwave, lamb should be thawed immediately before use.

September is National Lamb Month. Although lamb is available year-round, this month offers the perfect opportunity to salute American lamb producers and enjoy the quality product they produce for your table.

CRISPY CORNMEAL LAMBURGER

12-ounces lean ground lamb
¼ cup finely chopped green onion

2 tablespoons seasoned fine dry bread crumbs

1 teaspoon garlic salt

1 teaspoon dried oregano, crushed

¼ cup cornmeal

4 rye hamburger buns, split, toasted

Optional toppings: guacamole, horseradish, mayonnaise, freshly sliced vegetables

In a bowl, combine green onion, bread crumbs, garlic salt, and oregano; mix well. Add ground lamb; mix well. Form mixture into four ¾-inch patties. Coat each patty on both sides with cornmeal.

Grill over moderate coals for 4 to 5 minutes on each side to medium doneness or until no pink remains.

If desired, broil 5 inches from heat for 5 to 5 minutes on each side.

Serve lamb patty on toasted rye bun with your choice of toppings. Serves 4.

Am. Lamb Council

A lamb roast is always in vogue for a touch of class.

CUMIN-HONEY LAMB STEAKS

1 to 1½ pounds lamb steak, center leg or sirloin ¾-inch thick

2 tablespoons lemon juice

2 tablespoons honey

1 tablespoon olive oil

1 tablespoon snipped parsley

1 teaspoon ground cumin

¼ teaspoon salt

¼ teaspoon ground red pepper

Combine lemon juice, honey, olive oil, parsley, cumin, salt, and red pepper. Mix well with wire whisk to blend.

If necessary, cut meat into four portions. Brush meat with mixture.

Grill over moderate heat for 4 minutes. Turn and brush again with lemon-honey mixture. Grill 4-6 minutes more or to medium doneness. Serves 4.

Am. Lamb Council

CHEESE-STUFFED LAMBURGER

1 pound lean ground lamb

¼ cup shredded cheddar cheese

2 tablespoons sweet pickle relish

2 tablespoons finely chopped onion

1 tablespoon finely chopped green pepper

1 teaspoon Dijon-style mustard

4 multi-grain hamburger buns

Mix the cheese, pickle relish, onion, green pepper, and mustard. Shape the lamb into 8 thin patties about 4 inches in diameter. Spoon cheese mixture onto the center of four of the patties. Top each with another patty, pressing the edges to seal filling inside. Grill over moderate heat or broil 4-inches from heat for about 5 minutes per side or until medium doneness. Serve on toasted bun with lettuce leaf and sliced tomato. For variation, substitute dill pickle relish and Monterey Jack or Swiss cheese for the sweet relish and cheddar.

Mushroom and Orange Stuffed Lamb Loaves offer a new twist to traditional meatloaves.

MUSHROOM AND ORANGE STUFFED LAMB LOAVES

1 pound lean ground American lamb

1½ cups coarsely chopped fresh mushrooms

¼ cup chopped onion

1 clove garlic, minced

Dash salt

Dash ground red pepper

¼ cup orange marmalade

2 tablespoons fine dry bread crumbs

¼ cup dry bread crumbs

¼ cup orange juice

¼ cup snipped fresh parsley

1 egg white

¼ teaspoon salt

¼ teaspoon ground black pepper

¼ teaspoon dried thyme leaves

For the filling, in a medium skillet, combine the mushrooms, onion, garlic, dash salt, and red pepper. Cook over medium heat for 5 minutes or until onion is tender and liquid has evaporated. Stir in the marmalade and 2 tablespoons bread crumbs; set aside.

In large bowl, combine the ¼ cup bread crumbs, orange juice, parsley, egg white, ¼ teaspoon salt, pepper, and thyme. Add lamb; mix well. Divide meat mixture into 4 equal parts. Flatten each to a 5-inch circle. Place one-quarter of filling onto each circle. Bring edges up and around filling, forming a small loaf seal.

Place loaves, seams side down, onto a 12-inch glass pizza plate or other microwave-safe large plate. Cover loosely with waxed paper. Microwave on high power for 7 to 10 minutes or until no pink remains, turning dish once. If desired, spread a small amount of orange marmalade onto loaves before serving. Makes 4 servings.

Featured Recipe

Many people never even try lamb. If you are one of those, you are missing a tasty meat. American lamb is tender and tasty, not tough and strong-flavored like lamb raised in other countries.

Here is a easy recipe for a lamb roast.

For additional free recipes, send a self-addressed stamped business-sized envelope to American Lamb Council, 6911 S. Yosemite, St. 200, Englewood, CO 80112.

LAMB ROAST

1 boned, rolled, and tied lamb leg (4-5 pounds), well-trimmed

¼ cup butter

¼ cup lemon juice

¼ cup water

¼ cup sugar

¼ cup snipped fresh parsley

2 tablespoons cornstarch

1 tablespoon grated lemon peel

In 1-quart glass measuring cup, microwave butter at high power for 45-60 seconds or until melted. Combine butter with lemon juice, water, sugar, parsley, cornstarch, and lemon peel. Microwave on high for 3-5 minutes or until thickened; stir once. Place lamb leg meaty side up on microwaveable roasting rack in 2-quart glass baking dish. Brush generously with glaze.

Microwave uncovered at medium power, 20 minutes. Turn lamb once.

Generously brush glaze over roast. Continue cooking to desired doneness for 44-47 minutes for medium or internal temperature of 150-155 degrees. Let roast stand 10 minutes before carving. Reheat glaze and serve with lamb. Makes 12-15 3-ounce servings.

Farm Women Societies

Lancaster Society 18

Lancaster Farm Women Society 18 met Aug. 15 at Kreider's Restaurant with Mary Lou Shelton as hostess. Present were 17 members and two guests. Edna Buckwalter gave a devotional. President Martha Stoner presided at the meeting.

The program was a short narration about a group biking trip from Seattle, Washington to Rehoboth Beach. The preplanned trip provided mechanical aid, permission for overnight stops in churches, and transportation of duffel and sleeping bags by truck.

Ed and Rhoda Longenecker were the only married couple participating. Their description of the trip showed that these enthusiastic and sturdy individuals are today's pioneers.

One of the society's members, Julie Wissler with her husband performed a similar feat by motorcycle several years ago.

The meeting ended with the reminder that the September meeting will be held Sept. 19 with husbands and guests meeting for luncheon at Leola Family Restaurant.

Lancaster Society 14

President Pauline Stoltfus opened her home to the Society of Farm Women #14 on May 13 with hostesses Miriam Groff and Esther Landis. 'Mother' was the topic of Esther's devotional. Roll Call response to the question, "How many baskets in your house?" proved that members could have a display of hundreds of baskets if put together. Members participated with a story, poem, article of interest to make the program special. The variety had members laughing or near tears, even deeply inspired. Miriam Groff received a beautiful pin honoring her 80 year birthday.

Donna Coleman and Helen Hershey hosted the June 10th meeting at the home of Janet Leaman. Members discovered the age of ladies present ranged from 14 to 84 since members answered the roll call's question "How many candles on your birthday cake?" The program featured "Janet's Interest" by Janet Leaman. In a most interesting way members were made aware that Janet has a very full-filling life, not just for her own interests but a life that has reached many people. In spite of some painful health problems those activities continue.

In heavy rain showers on July 8, the Society #14 gathered at the Farm & Home Center to meet with friends from Farm Women Society #27 of the Mount Joy Area. Hostesses Ruth Combs and Ellen Newswanger graced the room with lovely table settings and also arranged quite a feast with all the casseroles, salads, and desserts carried in by members. Knowledge of perennial and annual plant gardens was very much increased as Donald Deiter, proprietor of The Cottage Garden Shop, showed slides of beautiful landscape ideas with variations of color with timing of blooms. He carefully gave names and habits of many, many plants.

Two days before members involvement at the Amazing Maze on Aug. 15, the Society met at the Tinney Pavilion, Strasburg park for the Annual picnic. Rhoda Landis, Ruth Kreider, and Jean Groff served as hostesses. They provided beverages to complement the many covered dishes of 'ummy' food. Members were visited by Aunt Lizzie, all 'done-out' in her unique attire from sun-bonnet to high top shoes. Her humor and wit were a portrayal of a talented gentleman, Ben Landis.

Thanks to the faithful dedicated workers who volunteered time at the food stand on the farm of one of our members, Donna Coleman, and her husband who sponsor and host the corn maze.

Berks Society 6

Berks County Farm Women Group #6 held their July meeting at the home of Karen Hoffman. A report on the County board meeting was given and volunteers recruited for the Berks Ham Fest on September 12th. Ten members were present and some husbands also attended the picnic held that night.

Six members were present at Naomi Mast's home for the August safety meeting. A video, "Contractor Beware," about electricity safety was viewed. Each member received a small first aid kit.

The September meeting will be at the home of Marion Gehris.

York Society 26

York County Farm Women Group 26 held its July meeting at Yocumtown Church of God with 13 members attending. Hostesses were Doris Beshore and Ruth Willis.

Donations were made to "The Cornerstone" and York County 4-H.

Entertainment was a film on "Christmas Across America."

Group 26 entertained Group 13 at the Community Lewisberry pavilion on August 4. Six women from New Life for Girls from Dover entertained both groups and a donation was given to them.

ANSWER — Mrs. Blank from Bird-in-Hand wanted recipes for Italian tomato sauce that tastes like the store-bought variety and a pizza sauce. Thanks to Raymond Stanton and others for sending recipe.

Basic Ragu Sauce

- 6 tablespoons olive oil
- 2 medium onions
- 1 stalk celery
- 1 carrot
- 1 sprig parsley
- 1 clove garlic
- 1 pound chuck or rump of beef
- 1 pound lean pork OR 3 Italian sausages
- 1 pound veal shoulder
- Pinch sage
- 1 cup dry wine
- 3 tablespoons tomato paste mixed with ½ glass water
- 4 pound can plum tomatoes
- 1 basil leaf or pinch of dried basil
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 1 batch pasta

Use a large heavy casserole dish to make the sauce. Heat the oil in casserole container. Cut a cross in the bottom of the onions and add them to the casserole with garlic, celery, carrot, and parsley. Prick the sausages with a fork and add them to other meats in the cassrole. Brown well over medium heat, turning the meats and vegetables often. Add the salt, pepper, and sage, and stir. Add the wine and cover.

Strain the tomatoes and the liquid from the can into a bowl. When the wine has been absorbed, add the tomato pasta and water, tomatoes, and basil. Cover the sauce and simmer very slowly for at least 2½ hours. Stir occasionally.

Remove all the meats and keep them warm if you want to serve them.

Strain the sauce through a sieve, squeezing the juices out of the vegetables. Discard the vegetable pulp.

Use sauce according to your pasta recipe. Leftover sauce can be frozen. Makes about 9 cups sauce.

Bolognese Sauce

- 1 slice bacon
- 1 sprig parsley
- 1 medium onion
- 1 stalk celery
- 1 medium carrot
- 3 tablespoons olive oil
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 pound mixture of chopped beef, veal or pork
- Pinch of sage
- 2 cups beef or chicken bouillon
- 3 tablespoons tomato paste
- ¼ cup dry wine
- ½ cup cream
- Salt and pepper to taste

Chop the vegetables, parsley, and bacon very finely. Saute them in the oil and butter over medium heat until quite brown. Add the meat mixture and brown it until dark in color. Add sage, salt, pepper, and wine. Cook until the wine is absorbed.

In a bowl, mix the tomato paste with the bouillon and add to the mixture. Simmer, covered, for an hour or so. Remove from heat, add the cream, and mix well. If you plan to freeze or reheat the sauce, hold the cream until the last moment.

New Bolton Sets Open House

KENNETT SQUARE (Chester Co.) — New Bolton Center, the rural campus and large animal facility of the University of Pennsylvania's School of Veterinary Medicine, will host an open house that features both the large animal hospital and the small animal hospital (VHUP). The date is September 19, 1998 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Various exhibits reflecting the school's commitment to teaching, research, and clinical care will be on display. The public is invited to tour the George D. Widener Hospital for Large Animals with its surgical suites, pool recovery, ultrasound, scintigraphy, neonatal intensive care and intensive care units for large animals. VHUP will be represented by the animal Bloodmobile and exhibits.

Many interesting live-animal demonstrations will highlight the day. There will be a six-horse hitch draft team made up of Rovenolt Stables' six black Percheron geldings ranging in height from 17-3' to 18-2' hands, each weighing more than 2,000 pounds. The public will be treated to a exhibition of hitching up and driving this team, owned and operated by Alfred and Donna Rovenolt of Turbotville.

Other demonstrations include dog "agility" with trainer Mary Lou Hughes of West Chester. Red Rose K-9 Search and Rescue Team with their bloodhounds, Chester Valley Dairy Club and a 4-H demonstration of showing cows, the Southeastern Cattleman's Association and examples of their cattle; Dr. James Evans of Chester County, who will demonstrate sheep herding with his Australian shepherd; Udder Cahos 4-H Dairy and Goat Club from Lakehurst, N.J., also doing a 4-H show goat demonstration with different breeds of goats; a beagle from the United States Department of Agriculture's Beagle Brigade used to sniff out unwanted fruits, plants, and meats to protect United States Agriculture; tours of the Marshak Dairy Facility with bus transportation provided; Ross Mill Farms Pot Bellied Pigs from Rushland; emus from Boody Mill Emu Ranch, Sewell, N.J.; Tri-State Bird Rescue, Newark, Del. lecture and live bird exhibit; The First State Coon Hunters and their jumping mules from Milford, Del.; and more.

The tent will simulate a real surgery and personnel will explain the procedures and treatments.

The Open House is for the public. Admission and parking are free. New Bolton Center is located in Chester County on Route 926 near Kennett Square. Take Route 1 to 82 North, turn left on 926 West, approximately two miles to entrance. Open House is the only time when the center is open to visitors and it will be held rain or shine.

Cook's Question

ANSWER — A Northumberland County reader wanted a recipe for crock pot apple butter and one for Boston Creme Pie. Thanks to Melisa Zimmerman, Leola, for sending both recipes.

Boston Creme Pie

Cake:

- 2 eggs
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 cup flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- ½ cup boiling water

Filling:

- 1 to 3¼ -ounce instant vanilla pudding
- 1½ cups milk

Glaze:

- 1 square unsweetened chocolate
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1½ tablespoons hot milk
- ¼ cup powdered sugar
- Dash salt

Beat eggs lightly. Beat sugar into eggs. Sift in flour and baking powder. Add boiling water gradually.

Have two round cake pans ready, greased with waxed paper liners on bottom. The batter is very thin.

Divide batter into two pans and bake at 350 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes or until done. Cool.

Make pudding with milk and cool. Spread between the cake layers. Melt chocolate and butter together.

For glaze, combine hot milk, sugar, and salt in a bowl. Gradually add chocolate mixture; blend well. Quickly spread over cake.

All Day Apple Butter

- 5½ pound apples, peeled, finely chopped
- 4 cups sugar
- 2-3 teaspoons ground cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon ground cloves
- ¼ teaspoon salt

Place apples in a slow cooker. Combine sugar, cinnamon, cloves, and salt; pour over apples and mix well. Cover and cook on high for one hour. Reduce heat to low; cover and cook for 9-11 hours or until thickened and dark brown, stirring occasionally (stir more frequently as it thickens to prevent sticking). Uncover and cook on low one hour longer. If desired, stir with a wire whisk until smooth. Spoon into freezer container, leaving ½ -inch headspace. Cover and refrigerate or freeze. Yield 4 pints.

Thanks to Viola Benner, Martinsburg, for sending a recipe.

Crockpot Apple Butter

Use a 5-quart crockpot without a lid.

- 2½ cups applesauce
- 3 teaspoons cinnamon
- 2½ teaspoon ground cloves
- 1 teaspoon nutmeg

Mix together all ingredients. Start making butter about 3 to 5 p.m. on high heat until bedtime. Turn to low heat overnight. Do not stir while cooking, only before filling jars.

Next morning, fill and seal pint jars. Process in boiling hot water bath 10 minutes.

Thanks to Viola Benner, age 84 years, for sending this recipe that she has been using since 1939. She writes that it is delicious and easy to make. She uses a #9 iron skillet to make it.

(CLARION CO.)

Pennsylvania Dairy Princess and Promotion Services, Inc. has announced that its 42nd Annual Dairy Princess Pageant will be held on Saturday evening, September 19, at the Sheraton Harrisburg-East. A milk punch reception will start at 5:30 p.m. followed by a banquet at 6:30 p.m. and the coronation.

John Deere 45- to 75-hp 5000 TEN Series Tractors

One tractor. Two PTO settings. So many uses.

John Deere 5000 TEN Series Tractors help you make the most of your chores, your fuel, and your implements.

Match your PTO to your work. Optional with the SyncShuttle™ transmission, a shiftable 540/540E PTO (shown lower right) lets you choose between the standard speed for regular and heavy-duty PTO work and the economy setting for light PTO equipment. This added versatility means you'll work at top efficiency no matter what task you're tackling.

Reduce your engine speed and save fuel. Set the 540/540E PTO on the economy setting when powering light implements, like small rotary cutters and sickle-bar mowers. Your PTO will still be turning at the proper 540 rpm, but you'll be running the engine at a lower speed, using less fuel, and saving money.

Work quieter. You'll also keep the noise level down with the 540E economy setting. That's because throttling back to a lower engine rpm level lets the engine run noticeably quieter.

To make sure you're getting the most out of your tractor, see your John Deere dealer about a 5000 TEN Series Tractor today.

newly selected Princess and two Alternates will reign for a period of one year from September 1998 to September 1999. During that time, they will represent the dairy farmers of Pennsylvania speaking out for its number one agricultural industry and all dairy products.

The pageant, which will be held on the Saturday evening preceding the annual All-American Dairy Week, will end two full days of activities and interviews for the contestants. Four judges, all from out-of-state, will select a dairy princess and two alternates from seven finalists.

The Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Program is supported by Pennsylvania Dairy Farmers through their various advertising and promotion agencies: American Dairy Association and Dairy Council Inc., Middle Atlantic American Dairy Association, American Dairy Association and Dairy Council Mideast, the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program and Allied Milk Producers with contributions from other dairy related organizations and individuals.

Again this year, as the result of a grant from Sire Power, Inc. and several anonymous individuals, the awards to the winners will be $1,200 to the Pennsylvania Dairy Princess and $600 to each of her two Alternates.

No Kidding Goats Are Amazing In Olympics

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff
LAMPETER (Lancaster Co.)
— It's amazing the fun you can have with pygmy goats.
The Just Kidding Around 4-H Pygmy Goat Club found out exactly how much goats can be when they participated in the Pygmy Olympics held recently at the Lancaster County 4-H Fair.

The Olympics included an obstacle course in which team members needed to lead a goat without dragging or choking it over the Billy Goat Gruff's Bridge, The Long Jump, The Terrible Tarp.

Little Miss Muffet (Erica Auken) and her pygmy goat took first prize in costumed competition sponsored by Just Kid-din' goat club.

Members played musical feed-bags in which the four legs of the goat and the person had to be on the bag when the music stopped. Again no pushing, shoving, dragging or choking the goat to make it cooperate.

The pygmy power walk required the goat to follow his or her owner.

The piggiest pygmy was determined by the goat that ate all the grain in the dish the fastest.

The hind-leg balance required a goat to remain on hind legs for at least 5 seconds without the owner touching the goat.

Treats were allowed to encourage the goats.

"The more you work with goats, they better they cooperate with you," said Mark Graybill winner of the gold medal.

Just like in the regular olympics, Laura Blank received a silver medal and Monica George received a bronze medal.

Fifteen members participated in the event that was designed to show the audience how much goats can be trained to do.

A costume show revealed the creativity of members.

All in all the fun events showed how good sportsmanship and creativity can prevail.

Beach Pals Monica George and her pygmy goat are reserve champions in costume competition at the 4-H Fair. Notice the pygmy is wearing a swim suit, towel, and sunglasses for the occasion.

Smart Stuff

WITH TWIG WALKINGSTICK

Why are slugs so slimy?

The slow-moving, stalked-eyed critters use the slime to move around and protect themselves.

Most slugs you find in your family's garden are about 2 inches to 3 inches long. Some can be as small as a quarter inch, and one kind can grow as long as 7 inches. Whatever the size, all slugs belong to a group of animals called gastropods, which means — literally — belly-footed.

Gastropods also include shelled snails. So, you can think of slugs as "shell-less" snails.

That bottom foot, or the base of the slug, is one big muscle. By contracting the muscle in waves from the front to the back of the base, the slug slowly creeps forward. The slugs secrete slime to help them grip and glide over smooth and rough surfaces.

The slippery mucus also helps slugs keep their skin moist. Most slugs live in rich, damp soil — far away from the drying sun — where there is plenty of decaying plants, animals and fungi to eat. (They also seem to like garden plants, which really annoys gardeners!)

It takes slugs about a minute to move 3 inches, which makes them easy targets for hungry critters. That's why slugs are most active at night — it's easier to escape being eaten.

Scientifically yours,

Twig

In addition, two contestants will receive $100 awards for outstanding dairy promotions for school children and two others will receive $100 each for the two best speeches designed for adult audiences. As in the past, there will also be two $50 awards for compiling scrapbooks, which chronicle their dairy princess activities to date. The contestants themselves will select the coveted "Miss Congeniality" award from among their own ranks.

For more than 41 years the primary purpose of the dairy princess program in Pennsylvania is the promotion of the dairy industry and its products on the grass roots level. Incentive awards will again be given to the counties whose last year's princess and her committee completed the incentive requirements.

In addition, an individual award of $300 will be given to the young woman who stood out as the outstanding dairy promoter during her county reign. This award, entitled the "Tina Shultz Memorial Award" is given in memory and honor of the outstanding young lady, who in May 1986 succumbed to cancer, during her reign as Huntingdon County Dairy Princess.

Pennsylvania Dairy Princess and Promotion Services Inc. announces that the Saturday morning presentation competition will be open to the public free of charge. It will run from 8:15 a.m. until noon in the Sheraton Ballroom.

Saturday evening, September 19, promises to be an exciting evening for 29 county contestants and their families as well as the Pennsylvania Dairy industry. Tickets for the event are $20 per person and are available on a "first come" basis from Pennsylvania Dairy Princess and Promotion Services, Inc. 214 South Street, Box 640, Clarion, PA 16214 or call (814) 226-7470. All tickets must be paid in advance and will be held for pick up at the door.

Homework Pays Off At Livestock Sale

LOU ANN GOOD

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — The usual emotions of tears, joy, disappointment, worry, and fear fluctuated during the annual livestock sale held at the Elizabethtown Fair last Thursday evening.

After months of preparing their show animals and appeals to buyers to purchase their show animals, exhibitors nervously awaited the thud of the gravel and the auctioneer's singsong of the final bid.

This year in particular, sellers were wary of potential bids. The market did not look good with the promised paybacks of only 32 cents for hogs, 57 cents for steers, and 75 cents for goats.

"But it really pays off for kids who do their homework," said Deb Hess, fair director.

"Homework" means that kids must write letters and contact business people and other potential buyers to come to the livestock auction and bid on the animals.

Hesses own children influenced buyers from as far away as New Jersey to attend the E-town sale.

"Kids must realize that they need more than one buyer," Hess said of the importance of the runner-up bid.

Generally the champion animals garner the top bids, but not always. Sometimes if more than one bidder takes an interest in an exhibitor or in generating interest for the fair, the prices rise dramatically.

This year in a frenzy of bidding excitement, Brian Geib's goat sold for more than the champion and reserve champion steers, an unusual event.

Dorothy Heistand paid $2,100 for the goat then donated it back to the auction to be resold with the profits going towards disaster relief.

"I bought it in memory of my husband," Heistand said of her hefty bid. "My husband Walter always took an interest in Brian's dad (Earl Geib) and bid on his projects. I'm just carrying on the tradition."

According to reports, Conestoga Auction was the competing bidder.

For whatever reason, the $2,100 bid helped ease the pain Brian felt

This goat shown by Brian Geib of Manhelm must be one of the costliest goats ever. Mrs. Walter Heistand paid $2,100 for it then donated it back to the auction where it sold for another $250 to be given to Church of the Brethren Disaster Relief. Fair Queen Sarah Wolgemuth holds the commemorative plaque.

in parting with his pet goat named Cooper. Brian plans to purchase a bike or a discman with some of the money.

Brian also received notable bids on his hogs. He had requested that his orthodontist and his dentist come to bid on his animals and, of course, the more competition, the better the profits.

Jill Hoffines' supreme champion steer brought $1,450 from Hoss's Steak and Sea House. John Messick of Middletown took home $1,300 for his reserve champion steer purchased by Hoss's Steak and Sea House.

For the reserve champion goat, Travis Leber received $250 from Fulton Bank.

A pen of champion rabbits raised by Monica George sold to E-town Fair board member Sally Nolt for $110. E-town Fair board president and farmer Ken Myers paid $75 to Michele Haldeman for her reserve champion pen of rabbits.

Jim Adams of Wenger Feeds paid $700 for the champion hog exhibited by Elizabeth Bard of Elizabethtown. Eric Ober of Manheim received $800 for his reserve champion hog purchased by Jack Garner representing Jack Garner and Sons.

Corby Ziegler sold his grand champion lamb to John Ebersole of Speedwell Construction for $600. For $300, Fulton Bank purchased the reserve grand champion lamb from Travis Donough of Manheim.

Although high bids add excitement to the sale and are wonderful monetary profits, some struggle with the validity of it.

"I hate to see an ordinary animal go for more than a champion one," said a longtime fair supporter. "It doesn't teach the kids to work harder. Instead it teaches them that they can raise a mediocre animal that will bring high profits because a grandparent or family friend will take care of them."

Perhaps. But like in anything else, perhaps the most valuable lesson is to accept that life is unfair and learn to maintain a good attitude in spite of it.

"It's the inequities of life," said Chet Hughes, livestock agent for Lancaster County.

Supreme Show Held For Breeding And Marketing

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff
ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — For the first time in its 25 year history, Elizabethtown Fair selected a supreme champion from non-selling supreme champions in the dairy, goat, beef, swine, and sheep. Ordinarily a supreme champion is selected from market animals only.

"We wanted to recognize the kids who raise top quality animals that are kept on the farm," said Deb Hess of the award given in honor of her dad George Mentzler, who passed away last year and was a nationally known Polled Hereford breeder and owner of Salunga Acres.

A hefty trophy was presented to Heather Brubaker who exhibited Great View B-Star Mabel, a 5-year-old Holstein, selected as supreme champion over all other species. Heather is the daughter of Lowell and Deb Brubaker of Hill-top Heritage Holsteins, Manheim.

The Holstein won over a supreme lamb shown by Jessica Stoltzfus, E-town; a supreme milking goat shown by Amanda Grube, and a supreme steer shown by Jessica Schmidt, Drumore.

In the supreme market livestock competition, Jill Hoffines' steer took the trophy over competition against a sheep owned by Corby Zeigler, Manheim; a goat owned by Brian Geib, Manheim; and a hog shown by Elizabeth Bard, Elizabethtown.

Jill's Black Angus best fit the judging standards for meat for the table and muscling.

Appropriately named Cash because the sire was named Payback, Jill said that the homebred steer was her first champion at the fair, although she had previously shown a reserve champion. Jill is using the profit to finance her tuition at Penn College, where she is studying floral design.

Quality Prevails At E-town Sheep Show

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff
ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — Judging 218 head of sheep was neither a quick nor easy feat for Don Witt. In the seven-hour show held at Elizabethtown Fair last week, Witt selected champions in breeding, market, selling, non-selling, and open divisions. From these, supreme champions were selected and then competed for the supreme champion title over all. In addition, showmanship competition was held for four different age groups.

So many different categories is a bit confusing and challenging. But the rewards are most sweet for the winners who know that competition is stiff.

Witt said, "There's always good quality here and it is getting better."

Selected as supreme champion overall was a heavyweight black-faced non-selling lamb. The 16-year-old owner said that this was her first time at the E-town Fair and only the second year that she had been raising sheep. Lebanon Countian Cassandra Shaeffer said that she raises Simmental show cattle on her parents' (Paul and Tracy Shaeffer's Myerstown farm.

"Cattle are easier to show. You don't need to work as hard," Cassandra said of trying to keep the frisky lamb under control.

She had purchased the lamb from Tim and Sarah Fleener, Robesonia, and credited the Fleen-ers and her neighbor Ann Leed with teaching her the finer details of showing.

Witt said of the supreme champion lamb, "It's got plenty of loin, is well balanced, and is real pretty to look at. I like the way she stands on her front end."

The champion market lamb was shown by Corby Zeigler of Lititz.

"He really spends a lot of time with the sheep," his parents, Dean and Carole Zeigler, said in unison.

Corby had shown the champion market lamb at E-town two years ago. Earlier this year, Corby and ANSWER — A Troy reader wanted a recipe for creamy rice, which is not a dessert but used in place of potatoes. Betty Lou Gamble, Concord, sent in this recipe.

Creamy Rice

1 pound rice

2 cups water

Salt

1 teaspoon butter

Bring ingredients to a boil on medium high heat. Add:

1 quart milk

Turn heat to low and cook stirring occasionally. Add more milk (about 3 quarts altogether) as needed. Cook until rice is soft about 1 hour or more.

ANSWER — A Leola reader wanted a recipe for Christmas pickles. Thanks to Maybelle Page and Nellie Strite, Clear Spring, Md., for sending recipes.

Christmas Pickles

Wash cucumbers and pack whole in a glass gallon jar. Do not use a plastic jug.

4 tablespoons salt

8 tablespoons pickling spice

4 tablespoons alum

4 cups vinegar

Put this in the jar and fill with enough water to cover pickles. Put a piece of plastic wrap over top of jar. Place tight lid on jar and shake to dissolve. Place in a cool dark place until December. Pull a brown grocery bag over the jar to cover it completely.

In December, open and drain. Wash pickles and cut or slice. Wash jar and return pickles to jar and add 8 cups sugar and enough water to cover the pickles. Shake the jar. No heating required. Keep in refrigerator and use after 21 days. Will keep indefinitely in refrigerator.

I like to dissolve the sugar in hot water before I slice them and let that cool down to room temperature. If you add the sugar and water without dissolving it, the sugar goes to the bottom of the jar. I have used the sugar solution the second time around for another gallon provided you keep the sugar solution refrigerated.

Quality Prevails At E-town Sheep Show

In her first year of showing at E-town and only her second year of showing sheep, Cassandra Schaeffer clinched the supreme championship title for the non-selling market lamb. Judge Don DeWitt said that the supreme is an eye appealing lamb that will hang up well on the rail.

Reserve championship market lamb honors go to Travis Donough for his homebred Suffolk-cross.

Stephanie Kauffman leads Pixle, a homebred Southdown to capture first place in showmanship for ages 10 and under at the E-town Fair.

his dad traveled to the Mid-West Elite Club Lamb Show and Sale held in Indiana. They drove straight through. While his dad slept in the truck, Corby scoured the hundreds of lambs offered for sale and selected what he thought had show potential for he and his sister Heather.

"He has a good eye," Corby's dad said of his 13-year-old son.

"I don't care what you feed your sheep, genetics is the key."

Giving Corby the most competition for the supreme market lamb title was a home bred Suffolk-crossbred raised by Travis Donough, 18.

The grand champion reserve win was doubly sweet for Travis since the market lamb was from the family flock of 54 head. He is the son of Ed and LaRue Donough of Manheim.

According to Witt, a lot of folks think the West has better sheep, but this show proves that people in the East know how to breed sheep too.

Witt said of the market lamb classes, "They're a good combination package that is pleasing to judge and will hang up on the rail."

Breeding sheep competition was also stiff. This year, a supreme breeding sheep was selected to compete against other species for the supreme champion over all at the Fair.

"Oh my goodness—this is one of my own," said Jessica Stoltzfus when Witt selected her homebred Dorset ewe as the supreme champion breeding sheep. "I was hoping but I didn't know if she could actually pull it off," Jessica said of the ewe that was first selected as champion ewe over all breeds and then had to compete against Jessica Schmidt's champion Montadale ram for the supreme breeding sheep title. Jessica raises about 20 head of Dorsets and 5 Montadales at the family's Drumore farmette. Although, Schmidt had shown previous champion rams, it was the first time her sheep was selected as supreme champion ram of a show.

The Dorset had taken supreme breeding sheep honors at the county 4-H roundup a few weeks ago, but competition is much more intense at the Elizabethtown Fair.

Showmanship was achieved by the following: Ann Leed, age 16-and over division; Corby Zeigler, age 13-15 years; Adam Zurin, 10-12 years; and Stephanie Kauffman, under 10 years.

Ann and her sister raise about 25 Dorsets on their Deep Run Sheep farm in Lebanon. In addition to showmanship, Ann also showed the reserve champion non-sale market lamb during a later event held the same day.

Adam, 11, won his division last year not only at E-town but also at Roundup, New Holland, and Manheim shows. From the 15 head of Suffolk and crossbreds that Adam raises on his parents' Mt. Joy farm, he selects a ewe that he uses for showmanship at every competition throughout the season.

Novice champion Stephanie raises Southdowns and has a flock of nine ewes, three rams, and four ewe lambs at her grandfather's George Lewis' place in Landisville.

A partial listing of sheep show results follows:

In addition to showing the supreme champion market lamb, Corby Zeigler took championship showmanship honors in the 13-15-year-old division.

Scholars Complete Youth Institute

SHIPPENSBURG (Franklin Co.) — Six scholars from the Lancaster Council of Pennsylvania Council of Cooperatives (PCC) recently completed a four-day Youth Institute at Shippensburg University.

In attendance were Beth Frey of Millersville, Paul Hostetter of Holtwood, Bob Karr of Millersville, Brandon Martin of Ephrata, Sara McMullen of Conestoga, and Ryan Martin of Ephrata. Carol Fay, vo ag teacher from Penn Manor School District, and Lehman Metzler, vo ag teacher from Lancaster Mennonite High School, accompanied the Lancaster delegation to Shippensburg and served as chaperones and adult resource leaders.

The 1998 Summer Youth Institute was the 38th in a series that began in 1960. It was designed to enhance scholars' understanding and appreciation of cooperatives, issues of concern to cooperatives, and develop leadership skills.

Scholars were sponsored to the institute by local and regional cooperatives operating in the Lancaster County area.

The Summer Institute is a joint effort of PCC and the Penn State Cooperative Business Education and Research Program (CBERP).

Local scholars were joined by more than 60 scholars and adult resource leaders.

In addition to cooperative basics and planned leadership building activities, scholars "faced" the issues of globalization, presented by Chuck Cruickshank of Land O'Lakes, and biotechnology and the ethics of science, presented by Lindy Brigham, a post-doctoral fellow in Penn State's Department of Plant Pathology.

A highlight of the Institute each year is the awards luncheon. Eleven scholars, including Beth Frey (chosen as one of two PCC ambassadors), and Ryan Martin of the Lancaster Council, earned scholarships to attend the National Institute on Cooperative Education (NICE) in Anaheim, Calif., in August.

What's To Do At E-town Fair?

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff
ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — Thousands of people attended the Elizabethtown Fair last week.

When asked, visitors say they like the food, the rides, and the animals.

In addition to traditional fair food, some visitors were eager to try out new tastes. Nancy and Jack Grove were at the fair selling emu burgers, sausage and steaks.

They have been raising emus on their Red Lion farm since 1992. They now have 150 birds. About one year ago, they started having the meat butchered under USDA inspection and offering the meat to the public.

"We call this the other red meat," Jack said.

The average customer is health conscious. According to Jack, emu meat is 97 percent fat free and has practically no cholesterol.

Those who tried the meat liked it and reported that it was difficult to distinguish it from the usual fare.

In addition to food there are a lot of funny or just plain down silly events that happen throughout the day at the fair.

Such as the Celebrity Goat Milking Contest. Politicians and other well-known people were matched with a goat. They needed to milk the goat for a set time. The milk was weighed and the winner this year was Bud Greiner, the mayor of Elizabethtown.

According to the mayor, who grew up milking cows, the secret is to wet the teats before milking.

While people cheered the mayor's win, he lifted the milk pal and gulped the warm milk.

"Not bad," he said of the taste.

Here are some photos snapped at the fair.

Champion of the celebrity goat milking contest is Bud Greiner, mayor of Elizabethtown. The mayor celebrated his victory by chugging down the warm goat milk after the scales proved he was the winner.

Deb Hess, E-town Fair director for eight years, said that every year she worries that things won't run smoothly but somehow everything always comes together.

What's to eat at E-town Fair? Bloomin' onions, for Lorraine Lewis and thousands of other fairgoers. "It's delicious and makes a meal to share," said Lewis of Landisville.

During the celebrity goat milking contest, Fair Queen Kim Wolgemuth tries milking a goat without too much success.

A litter of bottle-fed piglets fascinates fairgoers of all ages.

Jack Grove chows down an Emu sausage sandwich while his wife Nancy watches. The Groves raise about 150 emus in Red Lion. About one year ago, the Groves opened a mobile food stand to market the meat at fairs. Customers are mostly health conscious folks interested in the meat because it is a red meat that is 97 percent fat free with practically no cholesterol.

ANSWER — Cindy Welsh, Lansdale, wanted suggestions on controlling algae on an old spring fed farm pond with fish. The pond has a trickle tube with continuous outflow. Thanks to Evelyn Becker, Wendy Furie, Frederick, Md., and others for recommending barley straw. Take a bale of barley straw, wrap it in chicken wire, and place it into the shallow water until it goes in at least halfway up the side of the bale. It is difficult to get rid of existing algae but it will retard growth all summer is if it is put in place by February or early March. The bale should be replaced in three months if the algae starts up again, but this depends on the severity of the problem. The bale does not necessarily have to be removed but the chicken wire keeps it from falling apart if hauled out later. Barley straw works the best but some readers have tried wheat and rye straw with good results. Wendy and others write that since they have followed this method, they have not had an algae problem and it does not harm aquatic life.

According to an article written by Terry Poole, this inexpensive method for controlling algae was discovered by accident when bales accidentally fell into a farm reservoir in Britain. The pond grew far less scummy with algae than other ponds in the area. It has not been discovered exactly how the straw works. It is speculated that a chemical compound is released into the water during the decomposition process and that this compound controls the algae. Research shows that two to three bales per pond acre of surface is adequate and may need to be replaced two or three times during the algae growing season. However it does not appear to kill existing algae in a pond.

ANSWER — Barbara Moser, Reading, needed remedies for athlete's foot and for warts on hands. Thanks to M.V. Runkles III for writing suggesting several ways to control athlete's foot. First way: soak feet morning and evening in a solution of 1 cup vinegar to two cups water for 10-15 minutes. If this solution is too strong for your skin, dilute it to where you can stand it.

The second way is to purchase Bentadine surgical scrub (smells like iodine) at your pharmacy. Wash the affected areas twice each day and let the soap remain on for about 5 minutes before rinsing off. If needed, put small wads of cotton between toes to keep area dry. Your stockings and washcloth can reinfect your feet even after they are cured. They must be either washed in soap and water that is more than 120 degrees F, washed in Clorox water, or washed in Bentadine solution. The above also applies to jock itch as it is usually from the same fungus.

For warts, Salicytic acid pads work for him. Cut and fit the pads to shape the wart. There are different strengths on the market. Get your pharmacist to give you the strongest possible. Both the fungus and warts require persistence.

Marvin Ruth, Newville, suggests she breaks off a leaf of milk weed and applies the milky substance to the wart twice daily. It will take awhile but it works, he writes. He has used this method since childhood and his grandmother told him to do this. A granddaughter also got rid of her warts this way.

Linda Franklin, Quakertown, writes that she has had success using raw garlic. Wash area with soap and water, dry off completely. Crush a small piece of garlic to lay on top of wart. Try to only cover the wart itself as the garlic will burn surrounding skin. Firmly cover with a bandaid to keep the garlic on the wart only. Do this in the evening before bed. Change bandaid in morning, repeating the method. May take three days before wart dies and brushes off. Also recommends adding more garlic to your diet as garlic is known to kill many viruses and fungus.

ANSWER — Joelle Fisher wanted to know how to get scratches out of marble. Thanks to M.V. Runkles III who writes that Joelle should get a sandpaper called "Wet or Dry" as coarse as needed to remove the scratches while wetting with water. Gradually work down to the finest paper. Polish the marble by dissolving oxalic acid in warm water and rubbing with felt until polished. Some stains can be removed by using a poltice of choloxide of of lime and letting it draw the stain out over a period of time.

ANSWER — Evan Weidman, Newville, wanted to know when the Ronks Fire Company in Ronks has its annual chicken corn soup sale. Thanks to Miriam Ebersole and others for answering that the sale is held on Sept. 12 at 134 N. Ronks Road in Ronks.

ANSWER — Donna Robinette, 6751 Bluebird Lane, Dover, PA 17315 wanted a pattern for an afghan that starts at a corner and increased to desired size and then decreased to the next corner. Thanks to Carolyn Betts, Trout Run, for sending the following instructions. Cast on 4 stitches.

NOW IS THE TIME TO UP

HIS DEALER GOES THE EXTRA 112 MILES - DOES YOURS?

"What really impresses me is that if I have a problem, it doesn't take Hooper long to fix it. Hooper mechanics are specialized, so no matter what machine it is, there isn't a problem they haven't seen. Plus they care about getting you up and running fast. That's important."

Richard Beachel, August 1998

Richard Beachel's luck wasn't running real high. It was harvest and he found himself stuck in the field with a combine that was inoperable because of a blown hydraulic hose. Richard called Hooper's McAlisterville dealership, but they didn't have the part in stock.

However, Hooper's parts manager at McAlisterville called the Intercourse location and discovered they did have the hose in stock.

Because it was in the middle of harvest, Hooper knew Richard needed the part today, not tomorrow. So Hooper's airplane delivered the hose to Richard in less than two hours from the initial call. The hose was replaced and Richard was harvesting again.

WHY HOOBER'S AXIAL-FLOW COMBINES CAN SERVE YOU BEST THE 3 LAWS OF HOOBER'S RECONDITIONED COMBINES

Law #1

20 Years Old Is Not Equal To Worn Out . . .

Because of the simple design of the Case IH Axial-Flow Combines, they can be reconditioned by Hooper's expert combine mechanics to like-new condition, so they provide 2nd and 3rd owners years of satisfactory and profitable operation.

Law #2

5,000 Hours Plus Hooper Reconditioning Equals Years of Dependable Service

5,000 hours on a conventional combine usually means they'll be too much trouble to be dependable. Axial-Flow combines with 5,000 hours, reconditioned by Hooper, have proven to run for years when purchased by farmers in PA, MD, DE and NJ.

Law #3

A Case IH Axial-Flow Combine Serviced By Expert Hooper Combine Mechanics Equals Little or No Downtime During Harvest

When Hooper's expert combine mechanics service and repair Axial-Flow combines in the off-season, they run dependably through the season.

Reel Time Savings to Real Farmers

We feed 100 milk cows and a total of 150 animals with four loads per day at three different locations. We save 1 1/2 - 2 hours of feeding time every day with our Knight Reel Auggie tow."

Russ and Kris Schroeder
Agriprize Holsteins - Horicon, Wisconsin

We feed a total of 140 head with 52 milking. Before our Knight Reel Auggie, feeding a TMR took us 1 1/2 hours twice a day. Now each feeding takes approximately 1/2 hour."

John and Harry Nooven
Brabantdale Farms - Narvan, Ontario, Canada

We feed about 200 head per day with an average of 100 milking. We owned a 4-auger mixer before. Our Knight Reel Auggie has a shorter mixing time with a superior blended ration."

Wayne and Bradley Beidel
Beidel Brothers - Newbury, Pennsylvania

"We mix 5 loads per day to feed 650 head. Our Knight Reel Auggie mixes faster and unloads faster than the auger mixers that we previously owned. Drive through feeding with our tow model has cut our feeding time by two thirds."

Warren and Dave Otto
Otto Farms - Valders, Wisconsin

HYDRA-SPREAD

The simple and proven design of Hydra-Spread uses reliable hydraulic power to push the load. This feature eliminates troublesome apron chains, gearbox, shafts, and sprockets and replaces them with a simple, dependable, hydraulic cylinder assembly. Sides and floor of the Hydra Spread are made from super-slippery, corrosion-proof, high density polyethylene. The rugged efficient beater design delivers a fine uniform spread pattern. The all-welded unit frame features heavy structural sections for long life.

Hydra-Spread unloads smoothly and evenly with a simple, dependable, hydraulic push gate. Unloading speed is controlled by a precision metering valve.

Floor and sides are solid, corrosion proof poly-boards containing over 90% recycled material. Stronger than new and we're helping the environment.

Simple, dependable power train.
Every shaft connection from the tractor to the top beater is splined.

DIGGING DOWN? POWER UP!

Kubota introduces the KX-Series mini-compact excavators from 22.2 HP to 42.7 HP, featuring Kubota's "Power Up" hydraulic system that increases digging performance and traveling speed.

Whatever your construction needs, we have the right excavator for you. The KX-41 and KX-71 come with a two speed swing system that improves operator feel in delicate digging areas, while the KX-101 and KX-151 are equipped with the "TPSS" two pattern selection system that lets the operator choose the most comfortable operating pattern.

If you require an excavator that delivers superior performance and digging capabilities, work a Kubota KX Excavator and "Power Up."

THINK CONCRETE WHEN PLANNING YOUR FEED STORAGE!!

"HOW WILL YOU BE STORING YOUR VALUABLE FORAGES AND GRAINS IN THE 21ST CENTURY?"

It's not too early to begin planning your storage and feeding systems for the year 2000 and beyond.

As margins narrow, dairymen need to invest in efficiency; this can have as great an influence on PROFIT as milk price changes.

Protect your valuable feeds from the elements... increase the efficiency of your feeds, your animals, and your labor.

ADVANTAGE ... CONCRETE

No used silos, no rebuilt silos, no preowned silos...All New For You...

"This is the kind of silo you need to protect your valuable feed."

Cleanest waterer ever invented!

The JUG

Self-cleaning

The JUG is designed so that debris and feed are sucked up from the feed trap in the bowl with each watering; debris won't foul the water.

Low-maintenance

Light-tight design so that algae and odors won't build-up in the JUG's interior

Animals adapt easily

The JUG is designed so that animals, even calves, can suck water naturally,
no balls or flaps to get in the way

Choose 1, 2 or 4 bowl, energy-free, or energy-efficient models.
Meets requirements for dairy approval.

The JUG is manufactured by Edstrom Industries which has 25 years experience designing watering devices for animals.

PURINA DAIRY HERD PROFILE

1000 LB INCREASE

At Zim-Lea Holstein Farm located west of Schaefferstown in Lebanon County, John and Laurene Zimmerman like to farm and they like high-producing cows. This is evident in the well kept farmstead you see as you drive in the lane.

The Zimmermans have 80 Holstein cows that have a rolling herd average of more than 25,000 pounds of milk. Individual cows milk up to 150 pound per day with 15 or more cows producing more than 100 pounds of milk at any given time. Individual records go up to 33,000m. They milk 2x in a conventional tiestall barn with no BST. In their feeding program they top-dress with Purina's 24 Super EXT and use a 40 percent concentrate to custom-balance their TMR mix of haylage, silage, beans, and high moisture corn.

The Zimmermans like how the cows are producing under Purina's feeding program. "Before we switched to Purina feeds, I knew there was more milk to get out of our herd, but we didn't seem to be able to get it," John said. "I like dealing with a close-by mill and we have been buying small things from K&K Feeds in Richland. So it was natural to give them all our feed business."

The Zimmermans have been feeding Purina feeds for eight years.

"After we began feeding Purina we saw a 1,000-pound increase in the bulk tank within several weeks," John said. "They recommended a high use of home-grown roughage so we buy only the short feed we need. The Purina representatives like Duane Nolt and Ken Reeder are such nice people to work with too. We depend on them to formulate our feeding rations and help us with herd health."

Here's why they like Purina feeds at Zim-Lea Holstein farm. From left, Mae: 1-10y 308d 20,803m 705f 654p; Prissy: 4y 291d 25,141m 1,157f 848p and Holly; 1-10y 328d 25,687m 1,106f 860p.

A large number of cows in the herd are 2-year-olds. Many of these young heifers freshen at 1-10y to 1-11y. One of these heifers just finished her first record of 1-10y 328d 25,687m 1,106f 860p. Herd health is good. The calving interval average is 12.6 and they have minimal calving problems.

"Purina feeds and feeding programs help keep costs down because they stress a high forage diet," John said. "Now we buy Purina feeds for all our dairy animals from calves to dry cows in the milking herd — even down to our dog's chow. That's why we can recommend Purina to other dairy farmers."

Duane Nolt, K&K Feed, Inc., Richland, provides the feed formulas for the Zim-Lea Holstein herd.

The Zim-Lea Holstein farm is owned by John and Laurene Zimmerman, Schaefferstown.
